"It was boldly asserted," said Senator Walsh, "that, however tainted with corruption the nomination of a candidate for the senate may be, it should be established that it was procured by open and revolting bribery, the facts being published during the campaign and thus brought to the notice of the electors of the state who nevertheless gave him a plurality of the vote cast, his election is unimpeachable and he must be seated."

Too Shocking to Accept.

Senator Walsh in his address described as "too shocking for acceptance" the theory that the Smith credentials should not be challenged because Illinois voters, at the time of the election, were aware of the facts relating to his primary campaign fund.

"It was boldly asserted," said Senator Walsh, "that, however tainted with corruption the nomination of a candidate for the senate may be, it should be established that it was procured by open and revolting bribery, the facts being published during the campaign and thus brought to the notice of the electors of the state who nevertheless gave him a plurality of the vote cast, his election is unimpeachable and he must be seated."

DEAF AND DUMB" BEGGER SPEAKS IN COURT; IS FINED

Slayer Pleads Guilty.

"Are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Guilty," Hotelling replied in an almost inaudible voice.

The prisoner then was ordered to return to his seat.

"Stand up," Judge Brennan then said. "What have you to say?" the judge asked.

"All I have to say is to take into consideration the family."

"You appear to have no regret. You did not take the family of this child into consideration," the judge retorted.

"I have the deepest regret in the world," the prisoner answered.

Asked About Attacks.

"How many times have you done this before?"

"I never done it before."

"You assaulted two other little girls previously, didn't you?" the judge asked.

"Yes, sir," Hotelling said.

The details as shown by this confession almost convince me we ought to have capital punishment in this state," the judge declared.

Looking down sternly, he continued: "The sentence of this court is that you be confined in the Marquette branch prison in solitary confinement at hard labor the balance of your life."

The judge's voice rose as he pronounced the words.

"You understand," he repeated, "solitary confinement at hard labor the rest of your life."

Court Room Is Orderly.

The court room was crowded, but sufficient guards kept it orderly, though there was some commotion when Schneider took the law into his own hands. A large crowd had waited patiently in the corridors of the county building, but there were few outside.

The father of the murdered girl was the first witness called after the slayer, a deacon and an elder in the Church of Christ in Ossos, had taken his place in the court room. He was called along with Dr. W. H. Marshall to testify as to the existence of a corpus delicti in other words, that murder had been done.

Dr. Marshall stated that the little Schneider girl, abducted by the crime, was on her homeward path from school, had died from two stab wounds in the body. The confession of Hoteling had made next was introduced as evidence. Then his plea of guilty was taken. He was unmoved when he acknowledged the horrors he had perpetrated.

252, and that cases involving him had been blocked by intimidation of witnesses. The same thing is going on in many other trades. Mr. Donnelly declared, even in large industries, such as milk, laundry, dye works.

Mr. Donnelly said his association had had the greatest kind of support from State's Attorney Crowe, who had given him a special prosecutor and helped him in the case.

"We will not get far with the courts as they are organized," he said. "We can ask the judges to do something about continuances and to use ordinary common sense in administering the law and not to look for sophistries and technicalities to let criminals off."

"Crime is much complicated with politics. We have men with political pull trying to get the front for criminals. The only way out is to get some politics on the other side."

"This meeting should be the beginning of a movement to get behind officials, show that we have more pull than the criminals. Let them know that decent Chicago is going to organize to the task and take ten years if necessary, putting pressure on officials so that crime will be punished speedily and justly."

Says Crowe Hails Graft.

James A. Patten told of the success of the Citizens' Committee to Enforce the Landis Award in stopping grafting in the building industry. Appointed State's Attorney, Crowe, he said, met with prominent men, and at no time did Mr. Crowe seem to take votes into consideration. Sabotage and vandalism had been stopped.

Joseph R. Noel, president of the Committee of Fifteen, suggested a survey by the Crime commission into the root and causes of crime everywhere.

Edward G. Gore, former president of the crime commission, said that the commission had to take 70 per cent of the violent crime in this city. When it comes to the ratio of murders to population he cited figures to show that some southern cities were far in excess of Chicago. He gave credit to Commissioner Hughes and to Mr. Crowe for splendid cooperation, and said to get the best results Chicago must get the brains of the community in the behind officeholders. Hughes, he said, was the best police head Chicago ever had.

Hughes Tells of Alding Boys.

Commissioner Hughes told of his work in getting jobs for boys. He said his department had placed 3,648 boys and 1,000 girls every possible man to be a big brother to boys and that the police must get back into the heart of the people.

"Chicago is maligned more than any other city," he said. "This is by people who do not care for the city, who give out interviews to newspapers." The real trouble, he seemed to think, was not so terrible publicly. He spoke of Mr. Crowe as an honest and great prosecutor.

Crime is not so bad here, Hughes said, giving figures to show a reduction of 66 per cent in December, 1927, over December, 1926. "We will have bootleggers as long as there is prohibition," he said. "I know few men who do not violate that law, and this hurts more than anything in this country today."

Asks 5,000 More Police.

Mr. Hughes pleaded for support for 3,000 more policemen and said with this force he would guarantee there would be little crime and racketeering in Chicago.

Mr. Crowe reported on the work of his office, the greatest law office, he said, in the world, and compared today with the days of the old red light district and vice trading.

"I want to report today," he said, "that there isn't any open, notorious, protected prostitution in Chicago."

As to legal difficulties in his way as a prosecutor, Mr. Crowe said that it ought to continue to be a very difficult thing to take any man's life or liberty. Enforcement of law rests ultimately, he pointed out, with the jury.

Chief James L. Devereux of the county highway police announced last night that his forces will be thrown into Chicago Heights immediately in a drive to clean out the $1,000,000 alky ring said to be responsible for the murder early yesterday of the chief of a northern Indiana bi-jacking gang and two of his men.

While Al Capone, alleged head of the syndicate, has been vacationing in Florida, Chief Devereux asserted, Jack Guzik, his chief Lieutenant, has remained at home to tend to the job of eliminating those trying to cut into the ring's well organized liquor traffic.

Starts Search for Guzik.

It was the syndicate headed by Guzik, the chief feels certain, who ordeed the execution of the three whose bodies were tossed into roadside ditches at the south end of the county.

At the head of a search for Guzik, last night began a search for Capone, who was to be questioned about the murders. Two suspects were arrested shortly before midnight.

The man sought is a brother of Harry Guzik, alias Cusick, the prisoner pardoned by Gov. Small. Jack Guzik for some time has been known as a close friend of Capone, who is reported to have said on various occasions that Guzik was the one friend whom he could really trust.

Bodies Found at Rosedale.

The bodies of three of the victims were found at Rosedale. One road just northeast of Chicago Heights. Twenty minutes later a third body was found six miles away at Steger road and Western avenue.

The dead were identified as Harry Fuller, 22 years old, of South Bend, Ind., said to be the boss of the hijacking crew that dared to antagonize the syndicate; Joseph Caglano, 18, of 14 East Emerald avenue, Chicago Heights; and George Fazio, 21, all three had been taken for a ride and killed with shotgun slugs.

Fuller Called Hi-Jack Chief.

Originally from Detroit, Fuller was said to have transferred his activities interested enough in law enforcement," he said, "to spend two weeks in the Criminal court trying men, then the people are to blame for any miscarriages of justice that there are. If you want the law enforced there must be an aroused public sentiment back of the enacting officers."

Burke, chief justice of the Criminal court, spoke of various crime incentives and said the law today put a premium on dishonesty. It was a duty of the courts, he said, to grant writs of habeas corpus, but this did not necessarily mean release on such writs. Chicago is in a remarkably fine condition as to crime, he said, and an effort should be made to get honesty in news and stop propaganda against the city as a crime center.

HAS RIFLES, ASKS MACHINE GUN TO PROTECT SCHOOL

St. Charles Head Puts Blame on Judges.

Chicago judges are defeating the object of the St. Charles School for Boys, which is to reclaim wayward boys, by mixing in with this good material in the school an admixture of other gangsters and even murderers, according to Maj. William J. Butler, new temporary head at that institution.

"We might as well close up the school," said Butler, "as the papal encyclical to the church, the body and blood of Christ, is the same sacrifice as that of the cross, but is offered in a mystical, sacramental manner."

The text revealed for the first time that the Anglo-Catholics had acknowledged supremacy of the pope and that they had agreed that "in the communion the body and blood of our Lord Jesus Christ are verily given, taken, and received by the faithful."

It is on these very points—supremacy of the church and the eucharist—that the dissident conservatives have been raging in England.

Stand Pat on Pope's Power.

The text states that Americans pointed out the British axiom—"No foreign potentate has any jurisdiction in this realm of England."

The Roman Catholics replied that the right of the pope to intervene, but it might be a question as to how far he might exercise his right. If the principle of right were acknowledged, it is not conceivable that the sovereign pontiff might allow that normally local authority should work without his intervention.

This, incidentally, is the view of the great Cardinal Mercier. It was not—and is not—the view of Pope Pius XI. The Roman pontiff gave the world to understand in his encyclical that the pope alone is supreme and unanswerable, that no reunion is possible without recognition of the inviolable right of the pope, that unity is possible only when the erring black sheep of Christ are brought back to the fold, which is the Roman Catholic church.

The report concludes with the statement that the conservatives impressed all participants that it could become possible to arrange a satisfactory solution of the majority of outstanding problems.

The pope himself said, however, that there can be no solution but the one-return of the dissidents to Rome under his own terms.

"The see of Rome—the Roman Catholic Apostolic church—is the only apostolic church in the west. No patriarchate has been established there side by side with that of Rome. The Church of England owed its Christianity to the Roman see, which, through the agency of St. Gregory, sent it baptism." Further, the pope possesses primacy among all the bishops of Christendom, so much so that apart from communion with him there is no prospect of ever seeing a re-united Christendom."

The real fuel for the fire of controversy was contained in the following point of agreement:

"The see of Rome—the Roman Catholic Apostolic church—is the only apostolic church in the west. No patriarchate has been established there side by side with that of Rome. The Church of England owed its Christianity to the Roman see, which, through the agency of St. Gregory, sent it baptism." Further, the pope possesses primacy among all the bishops of Christendom, so much so that apart from communion with him there is no prospect of ever seeing a re-united Christendom."

England Broke Away in 1531.

The history of England can be traced, in part, through the history of the English church from the sixth century. One hundred years ago, in 1821, Henry VIII, in his desire that the pope was opposed to his intended divorce from Catherine of Aragon, broke the bonds with the Roman Catholic church and established royal supremacy over the English church. Parliament extirpated papal power in England by statute.

For four centuries efforts have been made, without success, again to reunite the Church of England and the Roman Catholic Apostolic church. That is why the Malines conversations were held. The late Cardinal Mercier, a liberal Catholic, sponsored the conversations in which Anglican bishops and Lord Halifax conferred with leading Roman Catholic theologians.

The Malines text recounts five meetings, commencing in December, 1921.

On the basis of agreement on the supremacy of the pope, the text says agreement was reached on several other points, which are thus summarized by

Split in Church of England Widened by Papal Parley

RELIGIOUS ISSUE LEADS TO BITTER DEBATE IN SENATE

Heflin Attacks Catholics; Rebuked by Robinson.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—(Special)—Injection of the religious issue into the senate debates precipitated a bitter colloquy today between two Democratic senators.

Senator Robinson (Dem., Ark.), minority leader of the senate, publicly rebuked Senator Heflin (Dem., Ala.) after the latter, in a vitriolic address occupying two and a half hours, had charged that the Roman Catholic "political machine" was responsible for the publication of alleged Mexican documents by Hearst newspapers. Senator Heflin was one of the four senators named in the documents as having received money from the Mexican government.

Three Excommunicate Catholic Church.

Senator Robinson, who is a member of the senatorial committee which reported that the Hearst documents were forgeries, not only censured the Alabama senator for his continued attack upon the Catholic church but declared that there was not a line of evidence to connect that church with the documents.

Senator Reed (Rep., Pa.), chairman of the investigating committee, and Senator Bruce (Dem., Md.), another member of the committee, corroborated Senator Robinson's statement.

Draws Threat of Party Lash.

The castigation administered to the Alabama senator so enraged him that he threatened to challenge both the Democratic senate leadership of Robinson and the latter's leadership on the Hearst documents investigating committee. Senator Robinson met this threat by announcing that he would call a meeting of Democratic senators tomorrow at which he would ask them to pass upon whether or not he should continue as minority leader. The Arkansas declared that if Heflin could do that he should lead the minority party himself, some one other than himself to lead it.

Senator Robinson asked unanimous consent that the senate vote at once upon his continuance as a member of the investigating committee, but Senator Heflin objected to the request.

Smith Candidacy Brought In.

The presidential candidacy of Gov. Al Smith of New York figured in the controversy. Senator Robinson denounced Senator Heflin for asserting that the Democrats should "hang their heads in shame" at the Smith candidacy.

He declared that while not committed to the candidacy of the New York governor, the latter's religious belief should not be a bar to his favorable consideration.

Senator Heflin charged in reply that he is "fighting the battle of the church against the Roman Catholic machine."

"I don't fear the senator from Arkansas, either politically or otherwise," said Senator Heflin. "I see him as a scoundrel."

Senator Heflin, who is a member of the Senate investigating committee, said he would call a meeting of Democratic senators tomorrow at which he would ask them to pass upon whether or not he should continue as minority leader.

The Arkansas declared that if Heflin could do that he should lead the minority party himself, some one other than himself to lead it.

Senator Heflin asked unanimous consent that the senate vote at once upon his continuance as a member of the investigating committee, but Senator Heflin objected to the request.

Heads Religious Plot.

"So in seeking some one who would lend himself to the miserably corrupt and contemptible business," continued Senator Heflin, "they sought and obtained the services of William Randolph Hearst. He was willing, without a scintilla of truth to support him, to drag the name of Gov. Al Smith and the other senators into a horrible and scandalous scandal when he knew that they were innocent. Willing to walk low in the cesspool of corruption and shame and then hang his head like a thief come to judgment, and by his conduct and statements confess himself to be a notorious slanderer, corruptionist, and scoundrel."

Senator Heflin reiterated his charges against Senator Robinson after the latter had concluded. The Alabama senator held the floor for another half hour, occupying altogether three hours during the afternoon.

Galleries Are Crowded.

The galleries were crowded and there was scarcely a vacant seat on the floor. The presiding officer frequently had to use his gavel to restrain the galleries from applause, laughter, or evidence of disapproval.

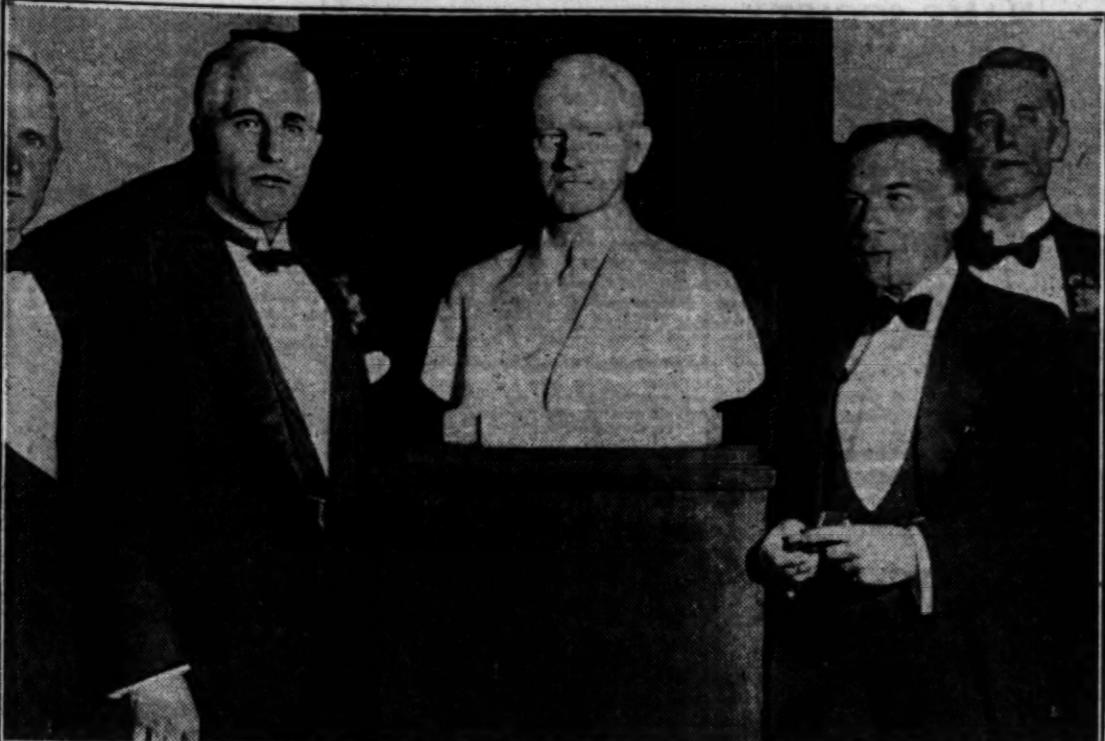

Both the galleries and the floor were at intense emotion and both appeared to be under a strain.

"Whatever may have been the motive of Mr. Hearst in publishing the documents, I think it unworthy of the senator from Alabama to declare that the fact that Mrs. Hearst is a Catholic, if it be a fact, is in any way responsible for the publication of these documents," said Senator Robinson. "There is no evidence that any one was of testimony in the entire record of the investigation that the Catholic church or Catholic agencies inspired or prompted these forgeries for the purpose of humiliating or disgracing him or for any other purpose."

Tires of Abuse of Catholics.

"I have heard the senator from Alabama make what he calls his anti-

CHAMBERS, IN HIDING, DENIES PART IN KILLING

With Miller, Tells of Slain Woman.

In hiding in a small town near Chicago, J. Gordon Chambers and Joe Miller, who is characterized as "the man with the hooked nose," last night gave their versions of parts they recently played in the life of Betty Chambers, the butterfly who was found murdered in her apartment at 511 Melrose street a week ago.

Attorneys Michael Romano and Louis Blumenthal, who for several days negotiated to give up their clients if the latter were guaranteed their constitutional rights, arranged the interview. Both men said they could prove alibis which the police could not disprove. Miller said he would be willing to give up if their attorneys told them to and if they could be certain they would not be given "gold-plate" treatment by the police.

Tells of Meeting Girl. Chambers told of meeting the girl seven months ago and of leaving her after she had "pulled a pistol almost as big as she was" and shot at him. Miller said he met the slain woman through Chambers because he had left some time in their rooms on a trip out of town.

"I know nothing of the killing and can demonstrate it by an absolute alibi," Chambers, a slick-looking youth, declared. "I will admit I met her and had a lot of difficulty with her. When she had shot at me two or three times I left her and never went back."

Their trouble started after she rented the apartment at Melrose street, and I was posing as her husband. One day she said she was ill. I got a physician and he said, 'There's nothing the matter with her, she's just putting on an act.'

Chased Him with Gun. The thing led to a quarrel and she chased me with a revolver.

"I met her twice after that, each time in front of 3117 Roosevelt road and each time she had a gun. The first time she was alone and shot at me. The next time her friend Marion (Marion Kirk, already under charges of murder) was with her. As soon as she pulled the gun this time I took it and fled," he said. "I have always told the police that I was afraid of her."

Miller said he had been afraid of her because he had been told that she was a scoundrel.

Marion Kirk and her husband, James, were taken before Judge William Helder in the Town Hall court yesterday, but their arraignment on the murder charge was continued until Jan. 26.

Senators Defend Stand. "Betty was curling her hair as I went in," he said. "I took what I wanted of mine and, after a word or two with her, went out."

Attorneys Romano and Blumenthal were incensed because their position and ethics in not giving up their clients had been attacked by the police.

"I am sorry to say that an attorney is under a legal or moral obligation to surrender a client against whom no charges are filed, is ridiculous," a statement from the lawyers said.

"There is no process of any kind by any court demanding the presence of Chambers or Miller."

They added that leading lawyers and officials of the bar association had vindicated them in their stand.

Marion Kirk and her husband, James, were taken before Judge William Helder in the Town Hall court yesterday, but their arraignment on the murder charge was continued until Jan. 26.

Supposedly at the suggestion of Mr. Brennan, a combination written and oral canvass was made today among members of the house of representatives. It showed fifty-five of the primary petition contest board.

BY PARKE BROWN.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 18.—(Special)—When Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago and Gov. Len Small concluded their conference last night, the outlook for a presidential preference primary in Illinois this year was black as ever.

Gov. Small reiterated his belief that his bill for a general primary in April, which would permit a party vote on presidential candidates, will be passed, but he declined an opportunity to indicate that Thompson had agreed to help in that direction. He put his statement in these words: "The April primary law will be passed."

And the Chicago mayor declared himself in favor of "a people's" primary, but said he had been informed that the two-thirds vote in the special session of the legislature necessary to pass the emergency bill could not be obtained.

Put Blame on Brennan.

Experienced observers, who have watched the progress of affairs here for the last two weeks, believe that both men intend to maintain their stand in favor of the referendum on the April primary, but that the bill will not pass unless the two-thirds vote is obtained.

A less definite, but a more surprising situation was discovered in the city when Governor Thompson was called up on third reading. An incomplete roll call showed only twenty-seven votes recorded for the measure with only four more in sight, and thirty-seven are required for the emergency clause that would make it effective before April.

The additional necessary votes might have been called in the chamber, since a handful of senators expected to vote for the bill were out wandering around Springfield when the roll call was started.

What Canvass Shows.

The Democratic canvass was considered clearly demonstrative of the futility of persevering with the present plans unless the governor is able to win over some of the big opposition leaders. With a death list of eight and with six other members reported as likely to attend the session, the total number of available votes in the lower house was placed at 139. All but thirty-eight of these, therefore, are necessary for a two-thirds majority of 122.

The canvass showed twenty-three Cook county Democrats standing behind the Brennan demand for a fall primary. To these were added sixteen down state Democrats, showing a Democratic strength alone sufficient to knock out the bill. In addition, the Democrats said they found sixteen Republicans for fall voting.

Most of these members are aligned with the Thompson-Crowe organization in Cook county.

Finds Only 78 for Bill.

One other test showed the apparent impossibility of the governor's program. One of his own Republican followers from an Egyptian district made an impassioned speech on the floor and found the situation so bad from his standpoint that he quit counting.

"I found only seventy members willing to vote for the April bill," he said.

As a further illustration of the attitude toward the governor's bills, the lower house spent a large part of the afternoon chopping up the general primary. In the committee of the whole, a number of amendments were adopted, some of them being the elimination of features considered important to Gov. Small. These were the provisions for the creation of two official boards, one called the primary certifying board and the other the primary petition contest board.

LOOP PARKING BAN ADDS 3,000 DAILY TO L.C. SUBURBAN TRAFFIC

More than 2,000 persons, who formerly parked their cars in the Loop, are riding on Illinois Central suburban trains since the no parking law became effective. A. Bernard, the road's passenger superintendent, revealed yesterday.

"We noted the increase in business the day the ban was put on," Mr. Bernard said, "and it has continued ever since." The number of passengers carried in and out of the Loop ever day by the Illinois Central is 122,000.

Heads of other transit lines carrying workers and shoppers into the no parking district were in doubt yesterday as to the effect of the new ordinance on their business. E. J. Bell, manager for the Surface lines, said street car traffic varies so from day to day that the gain in passengers has not been determined.

While the ordinance has boosted the taxicab business, it has not increased gross revenue, according to George T. Small, manager of the Yellow Cab company, as the speedier movement of cabs cuts the fare.

Principally, if these stand firm there is no chance for the April bill sponsored by Gov. Len Small.

A less definite, but a more surprising situation was discovered in the city when Governor Thompson was called up on third reading. An incomplete roll call showed only twenty-seven votes recorded for the measure with only four more in sight, and thirty-seven are required for the emergency clause that would make it effective before April.

The additional necessary votes might have been called in the chamber, since a handful of senators expected to vote for the bill were out wandering around Springfield when the roll call was started.

Experiencing a similar situation, the Chicago mayor declared himself in favor of "a people's" primary, but said he had been informed that the two-thirds vote in the special session of the legislature necessary to pass the emergency bill could not be obtained.

SAYS U. S. NAVAL GUN POWER FAR BEHIND BRITAIN'S

Admiral Discounts Value of Aircraft Carrier.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—(Special)—Assertion that American battleships are "woefully behind" Great Britain in gun power, range, speed, and effectiveness was made before the house naval committee today by Admiral Charles F. Hughes, head of naval operations and president of the navy general board.

Appearing in defense of the navy's $740,000,000 strengthening program, the admiral said that the need of the navy, parity with Great Britain, and dealt briefly with the unfortunate results from the standpoint of a strong navy, that have followed in the wake of the Washington naval treaty. He also voiced the opinion that adoption of the original American suggestions for cruiser tonnage limitation by the Geneva conference of last summer would have left this country without a "proper fleet" and with no way of getting one.

Admiral Hughes said that the battleship is the backbone of the fleet.

"Do you think this is true?" asked Mr. Wolverton.

"I do not," shortly replied Admiral Hughes. "The battleship is still the navy's most important weapon."

"Admiral Sims says the carrier is the real capital ship of the future, and that aircraft and submarines will be the dominant factors in the next war. Do you agree with that?"

Admiral Hughes replied in the negative and added that aircraft, in his opinion, will not dominate the next war.

Apologizes for Sarcasm.

"You will agree, won't you," continued Mr. Wolverton, "that this committee should give consideration to the opinion of Admiral Sims in view of the high rank he held?"

"Great consideration should be given him," shot back Hughes. "He spent most of his time in London."

A moment later he said:

"I do not mean sarcastic. I wish that remark could be stricken from the record. I simply meant Admiral Sims was in London and not with aircraft carriers where he could study them."

Replying to other questions, Mr. Hughes intimated that the navy would not again build aircraft carriers as long as the London Conference. He characterized these ships as "legacies of the Washington conference." He advised against building carriers smaller than 10,000 tons.

ORDERS ARREST OF SALESMAN IN AUTO SMASHUP

A capias for the arrest of Merrill Friedman, 4750 North Albany avenue, an automobile salesman, was issued yesterday by Municipal Judge William E. Helander. The salesman failed to appear in court to answer charges of reckless driving and assault with an automobile. Bonds of $500 were forfeited.

Friedman is alleged to have been driving an automobile that struck a parked car at Sheridan road and Division avenue. Mrs. Clara Nelson, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Neises, who were sitting in the parked vehicle, received fractures of ribs.

No deaths from automobile accident in Cook county were reported during the day. The county's motor toll for 1928 remained at 44.

George Dixon Fined as Fire Regulation Is Ignored

George Dixon, civic leader, president of the Arthur Dixon Transfer company, yesterday was given a suspended fine of $200 and costs by Judge George S. Holmes in the Municipal court, for failure to install fire prevention apparatus in the small private garage at the rear of the company's building at 5559 South Honore street. Dixon's attorney proposed that the regulations would be complied with by the time the case comes up for further hearing next Wednesday.

HUGHES POINTS PATH OF PEACE IN HAVANA TALK

U. S. Firm on Defense of Rights in Caribbean.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

HAVANA, Cuba, Jan. 18.—The sixth Pan-American conference, the outcome of which will place the seal of approval or disapproval on the policies of the United States in dealing with Latin America, opened today in Havana, organized today for its deliberations.

The atmosphere in which the delegates of the twenty-one American republics came together was tense with the realization of the big issue in the background and of its vital importance to the United States.

Every move on the diplomatic chess board in the Pan-American conference was closely scrutinized for the possible significance of its relation to prospective attacks on their rights of Uncle Sam as a policeman of the Caribbean region and to the defense of our isthmian policy.

Keeps Right to Intercede.
It was apparent that the Latin Americans were well aware of the meaning of the supreme effort the United States is making at this conference to conciliate the other half of the western hemisphere without yielding in the least in its insistence in the affairs of Caribbean countries for the protection of our rights and interests. The Latin Americans now realize that we aim to prevent this conference from taking any action condemnatory of our policies while endeavoring to justify our course as in the best interest of their countries as well as of our own. There was marked and important influence upon Latin America by the importance attached to this conference by the United States. For the first time in history a President of the United States had come to Latin America to deliver a message of good will, which there is good reason to believe has already dissipated much latent antagonism to the United States in the other American republics.

Face Strong U. S. Delegation.

The Latin Americans found themselves dealing with the strongest delegation ever sent to a Pan-American conference by the United States—a delegation headed by Charles Evans Hughes, who as secretary of state conspicuously won the trust of the South and Central American republics and at the same time enunciated most forcefully and unequivocally our Caribbean policy. With our foremost lawyer and diplomat on the scene, the Latin American knew the United States is ready for the fray if any are disposed to go through with pending proposals to put a crimp in our isthmian policy.

Mr. Hughes conducted himself tactfully in the first session of the conference. He and the other members of the American delegation remained discreetly in the background of the proceedings. It was only in the course of the meeting that Mr. Hughes was allowed to speak, and then it was but briefly and extemporaneously in acknowledgement of the tributes that had been paid to President Coolidge.

Peruvian Thanks Coolidge.

Jesus Salazar, president of the Peruvian delegation, had presented a resolution expressing the thanks of the conference to President Coolidge for honoring the gathering with his presence. Jose Antezana, head of the Bolivian delegation, had eulogized President Coolidge for his work in behalf of world peace. The Wilson resolution had been seconded by several other Latin American delegates in remarks of the same tenor.

Then Mr. Hughes, the man whom Woodrow Wilson defeated for the presidency in 1916, arose from a seat in the front row of delegates in the center of the gilded red draped chamber in which the conference was held. He addressed the half of the government and the people of the United States he desired to express appreciation of the resolutions that had been offered.

Coolidge Train Speeds North; Is Due in Washington Today

President Coolidge's Special Train en Route to Washington, Jan. 18.—(AP)
Secretary Kellogg feels that the effect of Mr. Coolidge's speech will be to convince the delegates to the Pan-American congress that the only purpose of the United States is to promote a solidarity among all the republics of the new world.

The secretary of state let it be known that he believed all the republics were under the thumb of the President's speech that the United States considers itself on a plane of absolute equality with the other nations of this hemisphere.

Accomplished at Jacksonville.

Resting from a strenuous trip on land and sea, President Coolidge neared Washington tonight to take up duties laid aside for nearly a week to speak at the congress in Havana.

Except for his single formal stop at Jacksonville, Fla., the trip enabled the President and Mrs. Coolidge to relax in their observation car, as few stops were made by the special through Florida and Georgia. Mr. Coolidge will be back at his desk tomorrow morning.

Greeted by Mayor.

The people of Jacksonville added their bit this morning in the way of cheers when Mr. Coolidge detrained to make an hour's automobile tour of the city.

He was greeted by Mayor J. T. Also and after a drive through the downtown section and principal residential area, Mr. Coolidge resumed his trip northward, reaching Savannah, Ga., about lunch time.

The streets through which the President passed in Jacksonville were filled with folks clapping hands and cheering. In the business section, office workers leaned out of windows to catch a smile from Mrs. Coolidge or a wave of a high silk hat from the President.

RUTH MCCORMICK GIVEN UNANIMOUS SUPPORT BY UNION

Engineers Praise Her and Forecast Victory.

Members of the Chicago Technical Engineers', Architects', and Draftsmen's union last night voted unanimously to endorse the candidacy of Ruth Hanna McCormick of Byron, Ill., for congresswoman at large at the primary election.

James Gilboy, business manager of the engineers' local, presented the resolution during the meeting at 165 West Madison street, and prefaced its introduction with a brief speech in which he urged the engineers to get out and work for Mrs. McCormick at the polls. He said he believed Mrs. McCormick's record, and that of her late husband, United States Senator Medill McCormick, in behalf of wage earners entitled her to the support of the laboring people.

Heritage of Mark Hanna.

The resolution stated that Mrs. McCormick has always been deeply interested in union labor, especially with both men and women, in an effort to improve their hours and working conditions. It pointed out that the experience Mrs. McCormick received through her father, Mark Hanna, has particularly fitted her to represent the people of Illinois as congresswoman.

Mark Hanna was one of the first employers in the United States to approve of organization among his people, said Gilboy.

He always maintained a sincere and sympathetic attitude toward organized labor and was one who always espoused its cause in an open and above board manner. Mrs. McCormick's life has virtually been spent in behalf of the men and women of toil.

Predicts Full Support.

"Labor, too, is indebted to the memory of the late Senator McCormick for his staunch advocacy of child labor law. From the time he introduced legislation he battled side by side with the late President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, whom reports I receive, the candidacy of Ruth Hanna McCormick will not only be supported by organized labor in Chicago but in the state as well."

The Ruth Hanna McCormick resolution was signed by Mr. Gilboy, Ben Rapaport, president; Harold E. Fleisch, secretary; and Ralph C. Kewley, treasurer. A copy of it was sent to Mrs. McCormick.

Appeals to Students.

Galesburg, Ill., Jan. 18.—Students at Knox and Lombard colleges were urged to take an active interest in politics by Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican candidate for congresswoman-at-large, in addressing the student bodies today.

"Use your brains in an attempt to solve national and world problems instead of just kicking about them," she urged.

"Perhaps we have shaved our navy too close in our economic program in the last few years," she said. "It should be up to full strength but no more."

KILLER OF CHILD ON WAY TO CELL TO SPEND LIFE

Girl's Father in Court Strikes Slayer.

the judge, his face more animated than it has been at any time since the murder was discovered, Sheriff Green and several of his deputies whisked the prisoner out of the building through the rear freight entrance and into an automobile.

Whether Hotelling's fate would be determined today or not was in doubt until nearly 12 o'clock in the afternoon.

Fearful Mob Violence.

Gov. Green and other officials were fearful of a recurrence of Monday night's demonstration if the slayer was returned to the state for execution. They wanted him to be taken into custody in either Ingham or Oceana county.

Arrangements were made yesterday in Ionia for William A. Seligmiller, an old friend of the Hotelling family in Owosso, and counsel for the killer, to appear in Circuit court here this morning and ask for a change of venue.

Last night Judge Brendan, the presiding Circuit judge, decided that Hotelling belonged to Genesee county to dispose of and that he should be returned here. He said that he would not authorize a change of venue unless Hotelling appeared here, pleaded not guilty, and demanded trial.

Issues Order for Slayer.

After a conference this morning, first with his associates on the bench, Judges James S. Parker and Edward D. Black, and later with Seligmiller, Prosecutor William C. Roberts, and Assistant Attorney General Arthur E. Kilday, Brennan ordered Sheriff Green to go to Ionia, get his prisoner and bring him back here.

When Green arrived at the reformatory Shean was in Circuit court there in connection with another case. He waited for more than half an hour before the judge appeared. The warden at once refused to give up Hotelling to the Genesee sheriff and three deputies who were with him until after he had been notified to do so by Gov. Green.

Governor Gives O. K.

He telephoned to the governor in Lansing and the latter asked that the release of Hotelling from the reformatory be delayed for a few moments longer until he, the governor, could get in touch with Attorney General George W. Seligmiller. Shortly afterwards he telephoned back to the warden to give the man to Sheriff Green.

When Sheriff Green was finally ready to take his prisoner away from Hotelling was in the arms of the Rev. James W. Frye, pastor of the Church of Christ in Owosso, which Hotelling regularly attended and in which he was an elder. Frye arrived at the reformatory while Green was waiting. He was permitted to see Hotelling in the prison chapel.

Standing with their arms on each other's shoulders, Hotelling walked into the warden's office, the only previous time his composure apparently was ruffled being last night when he confessed to having criminally attacked seven year old Esther Skinner in an Owosso cemetery and eight year old Ella May Horn near the town of Carland.

LACK OF BOSS CAUSES DISCORD IN RADICAL CAMP

Blaine and Ekern Seeking Wisconsin Reins.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

(Chicago Tribune Free Service.)
Madison, Wis., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Harkening to the sounds of discord among Wisconsin's radicals, many of the dyed-in-the-wool La Follettesites lay it to the lack of boss in the camp. Leadership is divided. Nobody is strong enough to crack the old whip, and old timers point out that the Blaine-La Follette group is now somewhat on the defensive. This is a game it never learned to play, its old motto being based on the aggressive.

Senator John J. Blaine appears to be climbing into a higher position of dominance than other leaders in the nation, at least he seems to hold the strongest hands in the game. Over the many of the dyed-in-the-wools have a heavy sigh—they have long suspected that Blaine is radical only so far as it gets the votes and that in heart he veers towards conservatism.

For a long time the gossip has been that this suspicion has been shared by the La Follette family. The neighbors at Madison have been saying that there is little love lost.

Ekern Finds Going Rough.

But that as it may, Senator Blaine's chief contender for the job of boss, Herman L. Ekern, has been bumped three times in a row. The process of elimination has moved Blaine a few notches upward, and from all indications he is the most influential figure in the group deliberations.

It has been a bad year for Wisconsin politics that Mr. Ekern was made a survey general with a view to making him the heir presumptive of the power and policies of the late Senator La Follette.

Ekern was the pet of the La Follette family. On the death of "Fighting Bob" the great question was who would step into his shoes.

That had been the basis of much of the factional maneuvering among the La Follettes men for years. It was generally accepted it would be a matter of strength between Blaine and Ekern.

Sen. La Follette, Jr., was elected his father's vacant chair, but "Young Bob" is accounted too young and years and experience to become the group leader.

How the Score Stands.

And between Blaine and Ekern the score stands thus:

Ekern defeated Senator Lenroot and in the United States senate.

Ekern has been to bat three times and has fanned out each time.

Ekern ran for governor in 1926 and lost while Blaine won in the same campaign.

More recently, Ekern was supposed to have the job of national Republican committeeman from Wisconsin saluted him.

When the committee met, however, it elected a stalwart, George Vitz M'Intosh, head of the Aluminum Goods company, and president of the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association.

The committee which selected him was practically the old one which had gone with La Follette in the that party movement. It is pointed out by some Blaine-La Follette men that six or seven La Follettes stayed at home or did not send proxies, the others being unconfident. Some are uncharitable enough, indeed, to hint that word may have been dropped that Blaine would shed few tears if Ekern fell by the way.

Third Bump for Ekern.

Ekern's third bump came a few weeks ago at the Milwaukee radical convention which picked a committee to run for governor. Ekern was among the candidates. So was Sol Levitan, state treasurer and a La Follettesite. Philip La Follette, brother of Senator Bob, was spoken of.

Ekern has always been a dry. The convention was wet. Senator Blaine is a wet. A wet plank was decided on. The ladies decided that to run on a wet plank would be too much of a joke. So Ekern was dropped and the choice for governor was Representative Joseph D. Beck of Virgina. Beck himself has been served as a dry, a political dry, at any rate, although he was introduced as "just as wet as Senator Blaine."

All this, it is gossiped, was arranged, and now for Blaine or Phil La Follette getting into the governor's chair next time, hanging on until 1932, and then being all set with a fine state machine as a possible contender against Blaine for reelection. And to top it all off, Ekern has been made manager of the campaign.

The Best Cough Syrup
Is Home-made

Now is the way to save $1 and get here best cough medicine you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this famous home-made cough syrup. You've probably heard of thousands of families that they could hardly keep up without it. It's simple and cheap, the way it takes hold of a cough will make you earn it a permanent place in your home.

Just a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of water syrup to fill up the pint. Or if desired, add a dash of concentrated sugar syrup. It tastes good, never burns, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made three times the cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough, usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate deep into the air passage, loosens a dry cough or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickles, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pine is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable syrup that has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments.

To my disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pine" with directions. I guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pine Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

La Follette Bill Cites Total to the committee on banking and currency, declares it to be the sense of the senate that the board require the contraction of such loans, "as rapidly as is compatible with the financial stability of the nation" and that the board also report to congress "what legislation, if any, is required to prevent the future use of the funds and credit of the federal reserve system for speculative purposes."

The resolution recited the fact that the loans secured by stocks and bonds of the 51 members in the New York federal reserve district on Jan. 11 reached the unprecedented total of $3,819,573,000 and that of this amount $1,502,580,000 is for the account of out-of-town banks.

During the past week, since President Coolidge's indifference toward the enormous increase of such loans, the amount of such loans to New York brokers for out-of-town banks has increased $31,367,000, Senator La Follette said.

"This represents a transfer of credit to New York from the interior of the country where farmers, merchants and manufacturers are still paying excessive rates of interest."

Roy A. Young, governor of the federal reserve board stated that the board is ready to supply full information regarding the situation to the senate committee.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—[Special.]—Action by the federal reserve board restricting further expansion of loans for speculative purposes is called for in a resolution introduced in the senate today by Senator La Follette [Rep., Wis.]

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Cremulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Cremulsion is a new medical discovery with two important qualities: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

The expedition will skirt the Tripoli colony in the direction of cases in central Africa, but will not go into French influence. The expedition is outfitted with powerful modern transport facilities and is intended to achieve a de facto occupation of the territory immediately adjacent to the French border.

This brings the Italian forces within easy marching distance of Tibesti and Birku oasis, which Rome claims for its sphere of influence and where French officers commanding outlying posts have been warned to watch against any infringement of the French sovereignty.

DRY AGENTS—TOO DUMB OR TOO DECENT?

Out of 2,000 federal prohibition agents who took the newly required civil service examinations, 1,500 failed to get a passing mark of 60 per cent.

There is consternation in the prohibition department. It is said that unless the civil service commission agrees to give the agents another try on an easier set of questions, a breakdown of the dry service is likely to take place.

In order to prove that the examination was not unjustly difficult, the civil service commission made public the list of questions asked the agents. They were, so it was explained, "practical" questions. Yet three-quarters of the agents who tried to answer them missed more than four out of ten. A surprising result. Surprising either way it is taken.

Does it prove, with an unexpected conclusiveness, that dry agents are the low mental type they have been accused of being? Or, equally surprising, does it mean that dry agents have been unkindly misjudged and are of a higher moral nature than any one has ever dreamed. It is necessary to look over the examination in order to make this latter possibility clear.

For example, "you and Agent Richard Roe," in the first question have purchased some liquor from Polls, a bootlegger. He promises to put you in touch with a wholesale dealer. You and Agent Roe, of course, are posing as mere thirsty citizens. But Polls gets suspicious and says he thinks you are trying to trap him. So state "what, in your opinion, you and Roe should do under the circumstances." Though the commissioners did not make the correct answer public, it is likely Polls' suspicions were well founded, and the honest agent who got 100 on that question quieted his victim with more deceptions and then nabbed him and the wholesaler, too.

In the second question, "you are a prohibition officer working occasionally with Agents Jenkins and Thompson." But Thompson, so Jenkins says, is crooked and is negotiating regularly with dry law violators. What do you "do"? This "practical" question is based on a crooked prohibition agent.

And the third question asks the agent to write an imaginary report in a case where certain county officials are conspiring with bootleggers. Another "practical" question concerning "officials" this time.

The last part of the examination is asking the agent to check the best or most apt "answer out of five possible answers to a 'practical' question. In one answer there is the phrase, "poisonous liquor" offered by bootleggers." One question supposes that an agent finds the stool pigeon who has been giving him good information is in reality giving him false leads. It is a safe wager that the right answer is to "continue to accept the man's information, but independently seek for evidence against him and the gang."

Another question begins by stating that private citizens cannot be depended on to furnish information against bootleggers and still operators and they do want their identity hidden. Why is this? The second possible answer is, that private citizens are not in sympathy with the prohibition act. The fourth is, that they are afraid of the bootleggers. It would be interesting to know which answer was correct. Or, how many agents would have checked off an answer saying most people dislike the informers if it had been given?

Still another question is based on the supposition that a young physician is selling prescriptions at five dollars apiece, and another on the hypothesis that a physician is in cahoots with a druggist selling liquor illegally. Are these also "practical"?

It looks as though the civil service commission had entered too heartily into the spirit of the game. There is such a thing as being too practical, too realistic. Crooked agents, conspiring county officials, agents deceiving and trapping, double crossing their stool pigeons, poisonous liquor, physicians selling their prescriptions. The commissioners are to be thanked for another courageous picture of dry law enforcement, but is that the sort of examination to give a self-respecting prohibition agent trying to be proud of his calling?

Did the dry agents who warned X not to make any more liquor out of fermented fruit juices instead of arresting him, and those who talked with the physician and threatened to revoke his license instead of trapping him into selling a prescription, get an "excellent" or a "good" epistle to their answer? We guess they got a nice round goose egg.

Perhaps, as we suggested, the result of the examination shows that prohibition agents are dumber than most folk. That might explain their failures. Or could it be that for the purposes of prohibition enforcement as demanded by the drys even the familiar type of quick trigger house smasher is too gentle and too decent?

WHY NOT A COMPETITION FOR THE OPERA HOUSE?

When Mr. Insull recently announced the detailed plans for a new great building to house the opera in Chicago, it was revealed that the design had already been fixed and decided upon. This was a disappointment to the many who are interested, not in the opera alone, but in the addition of so important a unit to Chicago's architectural scheme. It had been hoped and expected that this building, which is to cost $20,000,000, would be the subject of an international architectural competition.

Certainly the cost of the building and its destiny as one of the most prominent structures in the city justified such additional expense and consideration. That a design is wholesome and adequate is not enough for a semi-public building of this character. The structure which houses the opera and which, as in this case, houses it uniquely in a great office building, is bound to be the center of world-wide architectural attention. It should justify its position by being of the very highest architectural order. Such merit, if it has been proved, cannot be assured by entrusting the work to one local firm; the result in such cases is a design such as has been proposed for the new opera building. A competition is the only way in which the very best inspiration of the world's greatest geniuses can be obtained.

HANDSHAKING VIEWED AS A MENACE.

A CORRESPONDENT writes an article on the dangers of handshaking, saying we have so many handshakes of our own that we are hard put to keep a supply of broken bones. Maybe when Don Quixote wanted to a lance he let Sancho Panza break a lance. We are willing to go as far as Don Quixote.

During the great influenza wave the human hand as a means of spreading contagion came in for much attention. It is asked for, we are told, as though the custom of shaking hands was due for hard sledding. Bacteriologists found disease-producing bacteria on hands. The possibility that these spread contagion was more than suggested.

On this point our correspondent contributes the following: "It is a strange thing, but nearly universal, that people do, and sneakingly do, use the right hand—use one with which they shake hands. Germs cling very readily to the skin of the hands and it requires much mechanical and chemical scrubbing and disinfection to remove them; yet, sociable little things that they are, they are every ready to transfer their affections from one hand to another, or from hand to lip or food. If you want to realize the possibilities of the transfer of disease, just look at the hands of a man who has just washed any one for a day and see where he puts his hands, what it allows to touch and so forth, and how democratic he is in passing his germs along to his family and friends."

PREDICTION

You will make a voyage:
Blue skies and warm blue seas,
With lazy hours for dreaming
And a southward-blowing breeze.

You will find adventure:
In romantic harbor places:
Old songs and Latin laughter,
Dim lights and languid faces.

But you will be a journey:
On a piebald horse called Jim,
To a dove-fashioned border town
Beside a cañon rim;

And I will find adventure:
Holding kings and cold blue aces,
No songs or mellow laughter,
But stern, brown iron faces.

But we will use the same stars:
To chart our homeward ways:

Yours the misty sea-trail,
Mine the range's haze;

And there'll be two returnings:

To places far apart:
For I'll have lost my silver,
But you'll have lost your heart!

THE ABSENT-MINDED TEACHER

RHL: One time my teacher went to Chicago . . .

and there were so many streets and so many people that pretty soon he was kind of turned around.

When he saw a policeman he said, "I am lost."

The policeman said, "Where do you live?"

And when my teacher told the policeman where he was, the policeman said, "Oh, yes—well, there is the Sherman house right across the street."

The next day, my teacher went to the Sherman house a couple of hours ago.

So he went to a policeman and told the policeman that he was lost. The policeman said, "Where do you live?"

"Oh, yes," said the policeman. "Well, the Sherman house is right over there across the street."

After a while my teacher went out for a walk and when he came back he saw the policeman who had been to the Sherman house standing in the entrance of the Sherman house.

My teacher thought the policeman would be kind of nice and friendly to say "Hello" so he said, "Hello, do you remember me?" And the policeman knew my teacher right away and he said, "Oh, yes—I remember you—I was talking to you over near the Sherman house a couple of hours ago."

ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA ON ITS 160TH ANNIVERSARY

ONE HUNDRED AND SIXTY YEARS AGO the Encyclopaedia Britannica was founded in Edinburgh by a "society of gentlemen". Through all these years, the Britannica has kept pace with man's life and progress—not merely as a work of record, but as a genuine creative force. Each new edition has numbered among its editors and contributors the foremost writers and thinkers of the day.

The latest, 13th, Edition of the Britannica is a complete library in itself, containing "more things that are so, and more things that are worth knowing than any other book in the world". It has brought education in its fullest and deepest meaning within the reach of millions who could afford it in no other way. This is perhaps its greatest achievement.

One hundred and sixty years of service to mankind! That, in brief, is the history of the Encyclopaedia Britannica, and that is the inspiration of the truly remarkable messages of congratulation that have recently come to us. A few of these are reproduced on this page.

From EDWIN E. SLOSSON
Director of Science Service,
Washington:

The Encyclopaedia Britannica stands in a class by itself. There is nothing in any language rivaling it in thoroughness, authoritativeness and comprehensiveness. It contains more things—more things that are so and more things that are worth knowing—than any other book in the world. Many of its articles have been original contributions of the highest order to mathematics, physics and other sciences. It is a book for the business man as well as for the scholar and the busier the man is the more he needs it.

From W. L. MACKENZIE KING
Prime Minister of Canada:

Great credit is due to those who have brought the Encyclopaedia Britannica to the supreme position it now occupies.

From HENRY MORGENTHAU
Former Ambassador to Turkey:

My hearty congratulations upon the celebration of the one hundred and sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. It will indeed be a notable event whether the Encyclopaedia Britannica be measured by its length of life or its immense contribution to the culture of the world.

From FRANK O. LOWDEN
Former Governor of Illinois:

My heartiest congratulations upon the celebration of the one hundred and sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. It will indeed be a notable event whether the Encyclopaedia Britannica be measured by its length of life or its immense contribution to the culture of the world.

From JOHN GRIER HIBBEN
President, Princeton University:

My hearty felicitations upon the 160th anniversary of the founding of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. This great work has placed the intellectual world under a debt of deep gratitude. The Encyclopaedia Britannica's record of advancing knowledge forms a complete library within itself.

From SENATOR REED SMOOT

As one deeply interested in higher education and a frequent user of my Encyclopaedia Britannica, I sincerely congratulate the officers of the Encyclopaedia Britannica on this the one hundred and sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the same. May it exist for another hundred and sixty years.

From SENATOR I. L. LENROOT

Heartiest congratulations upon the one hundred and sixtieth anniversary. The contribution of the Encyclopaedia Britannica to culture and education is beyond measurement.

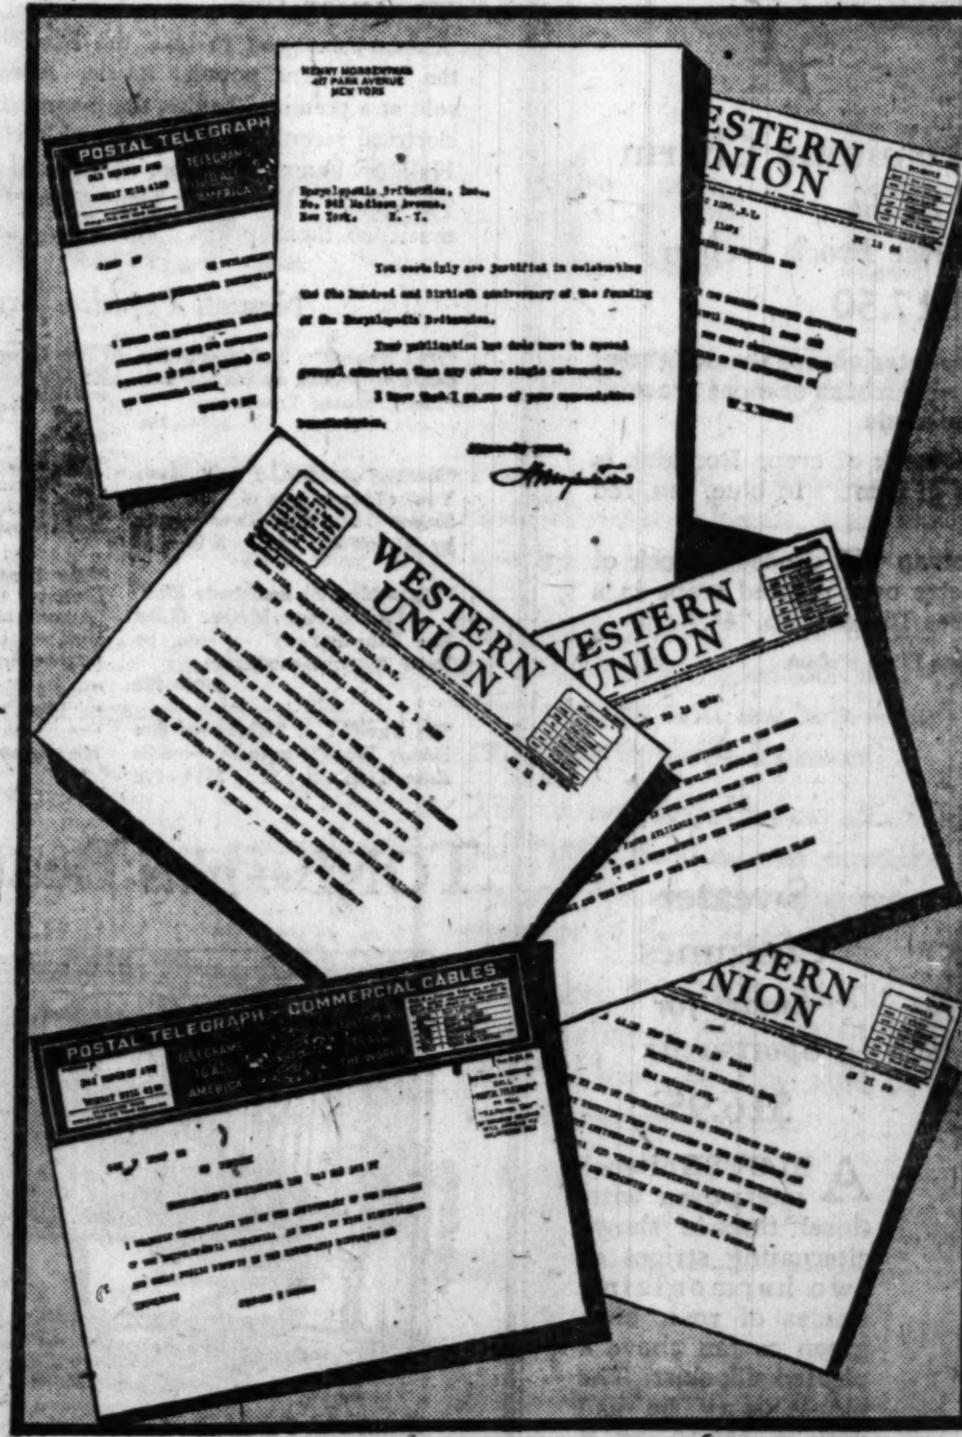

From EDWARD W. BOK

I regard the Encyclopaedia Britannica as the greatest literary achievement of the two centuries and the fact that the public has supported it for one hundred and sixty years is a testimonial to its monumental worth.

From R. A. MILLIKAN

Physicist; Nobel Prize Winner:

Hearty congratulations on the 160th anniversary of the birth of perhaps the largest and most constructive influence in the world for general education, which together with research is the one and only solvent of our human problems.

The Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc., 342 Madison Avenue, New York

From EMILY NEWELL BLAIR
Vice-Chairman, Democratic National Committee:

Congratulations on the hundred sixtieth anniversary of the debut of the greatest reference book in the English language. The Encyclopaedia Britannica is more, however, than the most comprehensive file of facts available for English-speaking peoples. It is a compendium of the interests, the knowledge and the history of the race.

From GERTRUDE B. LANE
Editor, "Woman's Home Companion":

For one hundred and sixty years the Encyclopaedia Britannica has maintained and consistently improved a unique educational institution. The increasing availability of this convenient reservoir of information to all English-speaking people is a public service of great importance.

From MRS. JOHN T. PRATT
Member, Board of Aldermen, N. Y. C.:

Please accept my heartiest congratulations upon the one hundred and sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. Every one must agree that it is a most valuable contribution to educational and cultural information.

From LILLIAN D. WALD
Founder, Henry Street Settlement:

Easy access to the facts of people and events that make the sum total of civilization is, I take it, the purpose and the achievement of the Encyclopaedia Britannica on the one hundred and sixtieth anniversary of its inception. Congratulations and profound appreciation are offered for this successful adventure in education.

From MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

My gratitude and admiration to the Encyclopaedia Britannica on its one hundred and sixtieth anniversary. The amount of authoritative knowledge disseminated by it in that long period cannot possibly be estimated. Its wide information makes for civilization. Then its contribution toward civilization is the largest made by any single agency. I am never without it and in my home it is the court of ultimate resort.

From CHARLES M. SCHWAB

Chairman, Bethlehem Steel Corporations:

Let me add my congratulations to those which you are no doubt receiving from many others on the one hundred and sixtieth anniversary of the founding of the Encyclopaedia Britannica and wish you continuing success in the development and expansion of this important work.

From GEORGE M. REYNOLDS

Chairman, Continental and Commercial
National Bank, Chicago:

A great host of Britannica's friends wish you well on this occasion and I join them. Your encyclopaedia has been of inestimable value to many thousands and I am sure it will continue to be of great help to seekers of knowledge.

HEIRESS SEEKS A DIVORCE FROM CHRISTIAN GROSS

Sues Chicago War Hero
in French Courts.

Cable dispatches from Paris yesterday carried news of a definite break in the domestic life of Capt. Christian Gross, formerly of Chicago, and his wife, the former Virginia Randolph Harrison of San Francisco. Suit for divorce was filed in the French court by Mrs. Harrison, who charges desertion.

Capt. Gross is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Gross, who lived for some years at Chappaqua, New York, before moving to Paris, where he is living in France at present. His wife is the daughter of Francis Burton Harrison, a former governor general of the Philippines, and his first wife, Mary Crocker Harrison. On the death of her mother, Mrs. Gross inherited a large portion of the wealth of the San Francisco Crockers.

Romance Begins in Islands.

Rumors of the impending divorce suit have revived memories of the romance that preceded his departure with Capt. Gross, who was serving in the Philippines during Gov. Harrison's tenure of office after the world war. The Chicago man, whose service in action in France had won him decorations from the French, the English, and the United States government, married the heiress in Algiers in 1922.

He was at that time studying for the diplomatic service, after two years in the Philippines. It was reported that his wife settled half her fortune on him.

CALIFORNIANS FACE
FAILURE, FUEL LOW,
BUT KEEP ON FLYING

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Facing a looming threat of fuel shortage, Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith, Australian flyer, and Lieut. George R. Pond, U.S. N., sailed smoothly aloft through their second day of continuous flying in their fourth attempt to break the world's record for distance flying record.

The pilots of the big tri-motored monoplane Spirit of California, who took off from Milne Bay at 8:09 a.m. yesterday with 1,535 gallons of gasoline aboard, message by radio today that they estimated only 350 gallons were left, although it was impossible for them to ascertain the exact amount of fuel still in their tanks.

Judging from the aviators' estimate, however, it was believed the Spirit would be able to fly 1,000 miles after 1:31:31 p.m. Thursday, when they would have broken one hour the record of 52 hours 22 minutes and 31 seconds set by the German aviators, Cornelius Edzard and Johann Ristic.

The Spirit of California only a few weeks ago lost its third attempted assault on the endurance record when a dissident member of the crew forced it to land after remaining aloft 49 hours.

Frequent radio messages from the flyers reported the motors were functioning satisfactorily today. They suffered from the cold, particularly after a high wind tore away the side curtains of the plane, said one radio message.

Kingford-Smith and Pond kept the plane flying slowly during the day, covering the territory between San Francisco and Sacramento. At 3:09 p.m. they had been in the air 31 hours.

The fuel load lifted by the Spirit of California on her takeoff was believed to be one of the biggest ever carried by a heavier than air craft.

and entertaining elaborately. Late, however, Capt. Gross was suddenly made secretary of the legation in Haiti and appointed for the West Indies, while Mrs. Gross relinquished her mansion, leased a studio in the Latin quarter, and announced her intention of becoming an opera star.

Mutual friends say that although desertion is charged in the divorce petition, it was she who refused to follow her husband to Haiti. They have two children.

Chemist Kills, Then Ends
His Own Life.

Believing that Alvin G. Wenclick, 28 years old, had influenced his wife, Mrs. Novak, to leave him, Victor Novak, 43, a chemist of 2125 Oak Park avenue, Berwyn, concealed himself near the Wenclick home at 2109 Grove avenue, Berwyn, yesterday morning and awaited his brother-in-law's appearance.

Wenclick left the house shortly after 7 o'clock. Beside him walked his wife, Jennie, 24 years old, also on her way to work. When they passed the telephone pole behind which Novak was hiding he leaped out and fired his revolver point blank into the back of Wenclick's head.

As the victim fell at his wife's feet, the slayer raised a bottle of poison to his lips. He drained the vial, then turned the revolver on himself and fired, killing friend to his brother-in-law.

Mrs. Wenclick's screams brought neighbors, who summoned the police. Both she and her husband were carried to Berwyn hospital, where he was pronounced dead. The wife was reported in a state of collapse.

Residents in the same building with the Novaks told the police that Mrs. Novak had left her husband a month ago after a series of quarrels. They said Mrs. Novak declared her husband was inordinately jealous and that at times his mind seemed unbalanced.

It was from them also that the police learned Novak believed Wenclick had influenced his sister to leave the chemist.

An inquest will be held this morning in the undertaking rooms at 6904 Roosevelt road, Berwyn.

RELATIVES FIGHT $115,000 GIFT TO DOGS' HOME

The Anti-Cruelty society, with offices at 115 West Grand avenue, is charged with having used fraudulent methods in securing a bequest of $115,000 under the will of Miss Anna R. Wells, who died Dec. 12, 1926, at the age of 84. The charge is made in a bill filed in the Circuit court yesterday to set aside the will.

Miss Wells, member of an old family of Prairie View, Ill., gave her entire estate to the society, under the terms of the final testament, with the exception of $10,000 to Miss Helen M. Tolman, an employee of the Union Trust company, who helped her manage her finances.

Attacked for Grandniece. The will is being attacked by guardians of two minor grandniece, Evelyn Francis Wells, 12 years old, of Libertyville, Ill., and Mrs. Cinderella Wells Ladd, almost 18 years old, of Waukegan.

The grandniece will share in the estate if the will is nullified. The other heirs are two nieces, Leolla Ardelle Bidwell and Flora J. Bidwell of Gurnee, Ill., who for technical reasons are made defendants in the suit.

The will sets up that agents of the Anti-Cruelty society, which is headed by John Jay Abbott, vice president of the Continental Trust and Savings bank, exerted undue influence on Miss Wells during the last few months of her life. With the aid of Miss Tolman, they took her to an apartment hotel in Chicago, employed a nurse for her care, and then under false pretenses induced her to sign the will, it is alleged.

Says She Misunderstood. Miss Wells signed the will, the bill avers, believing she was executing a document providing for the management of her estate, rather than a final testament. The Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings bank is named executor of the will.

Miss Wells was the daughter of the late John Wells, one of the early settlers of Lake county. Her name Evelyn is a daughter of the late William J. Wells of Libertyville. Evelyn is represented in the suit by Attorney Benjamin H. Miller of Libertyville and Mrs. Ladd, co-complainant, is represented by Perry L. Persons, county judge of Lake county.

ARREST WITNESS IN FIGHT OVER JENNINGS ESTATE

Frank Sullivan, 1875½ Ogden avenue, star witness for Edward C. Koester, ex-convict, claiming the $9,000,000 Jennings estate, was arrested yesterday on orders of Probate Judge Henry Horner and must show cause Saturday why he should not be sentenced for contempt of court.

The Judge issued the contempt citation after deciding whether to charge Sullivan with forgery, the crime for which Koester served a term in the Michigan penitentiary. Judge Horner acted after examining letters and notes introduced in evidence by Sullivan as having been written by Edwin H. Jennings, eccentric recluse who died in 1923.

Used Rubber Stamp.

Judge Horner found, he said, that the letters were signed with a rubber stamp of Jennings signature and that the postoffice cancellation marks on the envelopes had been drawn with pen and ink.

Sullivan testified Tuesday that Jennings had introduced him to Koester as "my boy, Ed."

The ex-convict is claiming the entire estate on the allegation that he is Jennings' son by a secret marriage in 1885.

Two other witnesses were heard yesterday. Mrs. Mary Krueger of Dundee, Ill., a sister of the late Mrs. Augusta Johannine Duewel, who Koester claims was secretly married to Jennings shortly before his birth to her, said she had heard from neighbors that Jennings was the father of the baby.

Tells of Bearing "Secret."

Mrs. Mamie Maas, 2057 Addison street, the third witness, and a cousin of Mrs. Duewel, who resided in Wyandotte, Mich., said that in 1901 her mother, then 80 years old, told her that there was a family secret she wanted to disclose before her death.

"Mother then told me that Jennings was the father and Mrs. Duewel was the mother of the baby reared by Mrs. Koester as her own," Mrs. Maas said.

The Mrs. Koester referred to was Mrs. Sophie Koester, sister of Mrs. Duewel. Because Mrs. Duewel's marriage to Jennings was secret, Koester contends, he was brought up by her sister to prevent any scandal.

The trial will be continued today. Koester's claims are being contested by the wife of Jennings, a lone wolf stock operator, who died supposedly a bachelor.

$975 is all you have to pay for this Nash enclosed model, fitted and equipped with all the "extras" a dealer usually sells you after he sells you the car.

In all our history as Nash dealers in Chicago, we've never offered a Nash 6-cylinder enclosed model at so low a figure.

Remember too, this is one of the new Nash models announced several months ago—one of the same cars that made Nash the Style Center of last week's New York Motor Show.

$975 brings you Nash style and stamina—Nash 7-bearing crankshaft smoothness—Nash pickup and speed—Nash two-way 4-wheel brakes.

A lustrous Falmouth Gray finish—your choice of genuine leather or fine velour upholstery—spacious rear compartment for luggage and satchels—and a world of other equipment features.

The delivered prices on all of the 24 beautiful Nash models are equally low. These models are months and months ahead of the rest of their field. See them!

See them TODAY. And if you own a car now, drive it over. With our Used Car stock so low, we'll be able to make you a very interesting offer.

BRITISH DEMAND LIMITATION OF SECURITY PACTS

Urge Geneva to Stick to Regional Treaties.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Copyright: 1928, By The Chicago Tribune.)
LONDON, Jan. 18.—The text of Great Britain's suggestions to the sub-committee on security of the preparatory committee on disarmament, submitted to meet in February at Geneva, was given out by the foreign office today. It is characterized by its highly cautious attitude, reserving a statement of both justifiable and non-justifiable disputes, as well as the question of sanctions. It emphatically reasserts its belief in localized security agreements as opposed to generalized schemes.

Referring to the British-French arbitration treaty of 1903, the note states:

"Whatever changes may be recommended, it is clear that some limitations on the scope of a treaty of this kind are essential. Disputes legal in their nature may arise between two states with regard to matters falling exclusively within the domestic jurisdiction of one of them. No state can agree to submission to an international tribunal of matters falling exclusively within the range of its national sovereignty."

Depends on People.

The note points out that the strength of an arbitration treaty depends entirely on the willingness of the people to submit their disputes, as well as to themselves, which creates limits beyond which a state cannot go in accepting binding obligations to arbitrate.

New Obligations.

Britain's note suggests it may be: "His majesty's government are unable themselves to contract further obligations of this character and extend the tremendous responsibilities involved in regions where their interests are less directly concerned."

The message adds that the measure of security afforded by agreements of this kind is proportional to the extent to which they are devised to meet specific danger as well as the character and clarity of the definition of measures to be taken in the event of that danger arising.

Inconsistent, it's true, yet often the case, where an otherwise flawlessly attired woman, who would never think of wearing paste jewelry on her fingers, will unhesitatingly mar the effect of the ensemble with a rope of imitation pearls.

LAWRENCE CUNEO, PIONEER ITALIAN MERCHANT, DEAD

Passes Away in Home at Age of 73.

Lawrence Cuneo, well known fruit commission merchant, died last night in his home at 2428 Sheridan road following an illness which had been serious for more than a week. He was 73 years old.

Mr. Cuneo was one of the earliest Italian merchants in the city. He and his family came to Chicago from Italy in 1880. He was educated in the public schools here.

Entering the wholesale fruit business, he soon became one of the leading figures on old South Water street.

In addition to his business interests, he was a large property owner and took an active interest in civic affairs.

He was one of the organizers of the Italian Club, which has been a factor in the development of the Italian community.

Mr. Cuneo was first associated with his brother, Andrew, and Louis Bolano, in 1883. In 1893 the firm came known as Cuneo Brothers. Mr. Cuneo was a member of the Catholic Order of Foresters.

He is survived by his widow and ten children among them being Mrs. B. Cuneo, Mrs. Charles Casaretto, Mrs. Frank Mitchell, Mrs. Walter E. Schmidt, Mrs. Thomas Cottrell, Lawrence, Ross, Frances and Vera Cuneo. The funeral probably will be held Saturday. Plans of the family will be announced later.

Card Game Advisors Form Society; Name Bodyguard

Emil G. Seip was elected president of the Kibitzers Club of South Chicago at a first meeting last night at 7148 Houston avenue. One hundred and ten members attended. Members of the club claim the right to give advice in any card game. The most important office filled last night was that of bodyguard, with the duty of protecting any member from uninvited card players. Tom Mulroy, 6 feet 6 inches tall, was given this office.

The trial and acquittal of M. Manolescu, friend of former Crown Prince Carol, showed that a large proportion of the deputies in parliament, the lawyers and the magistrates did not uphold the contention of the late Premier Jonel Bratiano, who was responsible for the assassination of the claimant of Prince Carol, that to nominate changes in the regency or dynasty was illegal. A weak point in the government's armor was the fact that the regency is created by a law and is not written in the constitution.

This is the fourth of a series of articles by Mr. Rue on conditions in Roumania.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Roumania, Jan. 18.—THE TRIBUNE correspondent in previous articles has cited the grievances of the Roumanian people and the opposition against the government which are the nucleus of the political campaign to force the resignation of Premier Vintilă Bratiano and admit new elections.

The fact that various elements in the country are uniting to bring about a change in the regency and dynasty is used by the Roumanian government to justify its determination to keep the present cabinet at its disposal to keep in power.

SAYS FLUNKING SHOWS DRY LAW USES IGNORANCE

Illustrates Type Sought as Enforcers.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—(Special)—The flunking of 1,500 dry agents in the recent civil service examinations was cited today by Representative Cellier [Dem., N. Y.] as an illustration of the "ignorance of prohibition enforcers" held by the government to enforce the Volstead act.

"It is small wonder," he said in suggesting a series of nineteen factitious questions that should be excluded in any re-examination accorded the flunkers, "that prohibition enforcement has been a stench in the nostrils of good citizens. Ignorance is the handmaiden of other crimes that's why they retain gunmen and crooks in the service."

Repudiates Prohibition Law.

Representative Cellier ridiculed the legislation of prohibition to retain the drinking prohibition agents in service for the good of the organization.

"Retaining these crass, stolid and venal agents is unthinkable," he said. "At last civil service will let in the right and bring some intelligent men into the service."

Representative Cellier suggests that possibly the civil service "took the snipers at a disadvantage in the first examination and put them on the honor roll."

Suggests an Honest Quiz.

Therefore he suggested the following as appropriate questions:

"What is the best way to satisfy an itching palm?"

"How many times may you shake down a bootlegger?"

"What kind of a bird is a stool pigeon?"

"What is cheating cheaters?"

"Should police be permitted to interfere with your game of graft?"

"Is an oyster cocktail lawful?"

"Is a cotton gin as good as Gor-don's?"

"Should a prohibition agent white [wine] when a hi-jacker double crosses him?"

"Can you buy a nightcap in the 5 and 10 cent store?"

TRIBUNE OFFERS 1927 INCOME TAX FORMS TO PUBLIC

Necessary blanks and aid in filling out income tax forms are available at The Tribune Public Service Office at 1 South Dearborn street, or at the branch of the Public Service Office in the lobby of the Tribune Tower. Hugh Donaldson of the Public Service office announced yesterday.

The forms were received yesterday for making income tax returns for the calendar year 1927. Free notices on these forms are available at all times. After January 1, several thousand tax experts will be present to assist the public in making returns. Thousands in past years have availed themselves of the opportunity to make early and correct returns. Persons desiring the aid of The Tribune Public Service office on income tax matters are urged to file their returns early.

Three Children Playing With Fire Burn to Death

Two little girls were playing with fire last night in the kitchen of a home of $12 North May street. The dress of one caught the flames and she burned to death. She was Concetta Verace, 5, of that address. A blaze attributed to children playing with matches caused the death of two colored children on the fifth floor of an apartment building at 2828 Calumet avenue. They were Merle and Chettemon, 4, and their cousin, Frank Lake, aged 5. Dorothy, 12 months old, a sister of Frank, was seriously burned.

MISSING TEACHER IS RETURNED TO PARENTS BY DETROIT HOSPITAL

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 18.—(AP)—Miss Jean McClure, 18, of Corning, N. Y., school teacher, for whom a nationwide search has been conducted since her disappearance Sept. 1, 1927, has been turned over to her parents and returned to her home in Corning, N. Y., according to officials at Harper hospital here, where she recently applied for treatment at the psychopathic clinic. Hospital officials refused to discuss the case beyond saying Miss McClure had been treated and subsequently taken away by her parents.

DRY MOP HITS KENOSHA; RAID'S AT 17 SALOONS

Kenosha, Wis., Jan. 17.—(Special)—Federal and state prohibition agents were in Kenosha tonight serving federal warrants on seventeen saloon-keepers and roadhouse owners in the greatest single stroke of prohibition enforcement in Kenosha county has known. Thirteen of these were taken to Milwaukee to appear before a United States marshal.

"Retaining these crass, stolid and venal agents is unthinkable," he said.

WE WON'T SNOOP ON LEVIATHAN, SKIPPER PLEDGES

Assures Chicagoans of Freedom on Boat.

Curiosity concerning possible liquid contents of a passenger's baggage will not be evidenced on the Leviathan as long as Commodore Herbert Hartley is skipper of the boat, a group of 1,000 business men at an Association of Commerce luncheon were told yesterday at the Hotel La Salle. There will be no snooping for liquor aboard the ship.

Commodore Hartley is spending several days in Chicago visiting friends and made aboard the largest of the United States line vessels, which is now in dry dock for repairs.

Would Tie Up Ship.

"There is no one in the United States who will give me orders to go around and snap up glasses at tables," he said. "If that time comes, the Leviathan will tie to the dock and leave here there. Our passengers go over dry, but come back with heavy baggage. And it's not all baggage either."

More than 200 Chicagoans who have crossed the Atlantic with Commodore Hartley attended a banquet last night at the Drake hotel. A miniature of the ship surrounded by rolling waves was there to lend realism to recollections of days spent on the ocean.

Deplores Naval Status.

Brig. Gen. John C. Quinn spoke, declaring that it is useless to build a navy if a merchant marine, the navy's secondary defense, is not maintained in conjunction with the floating armada. Commodore Hartley responded, saying "It is a pity that the world's wealthiest nation cannot compete with other countries." He outlined the activities of England in building new and speedy sailing vessels.

Among those attending the banquet were Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, Dr. Louis Mann, and Robert M. Switzer, county clerk, who acted as toastmaster. She is the wife of John W. Root, a Chicago architect.

Son Is Born to Marie, Queen of Jugo-Slavia.

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Jan. 19.—(Thursday)—(AP)—Queen Marie of Jugoslavia, daughter of Queen Marie of Rumania, gave birth to a son at 12:00 a. m. today.

Two FINED FOR LURING GIRLS.

Two Mexicans, who tried to entice two young girls into their room, were given the maximum sentence of $300 fines and costs yesterday by Judge Joseph Burke. The girls, 14 and 15, were unable to pay and were sent to the Bridewell for six months. They are Jose Maina, 21, and Domingo Campos, 22, both of South Wood street.

TRECET'S LAST MINUTE STAND EARNED VICTORY

Jai Alai Crowd's Jeers Change to Cheers.

Trecoet and Barrutin had to make a last minute stand to make good for their army of jai alai followers at the Rainbow fronton last night. They were the short priced favorites and easily won, but were taken what looked to be a safe lead.

Trecoet's Costa Falls Hm.

Soder, Trecoet's Costa, which had been doing well, suddenly failed him. His team kept losing until Vicente and Marcelino had tied the count at 14 all. The players of favorites were beginning to howl at Trecoet and Barrutin. Marcelino saved them from further abuse when he swung two hard at an ear, bounding and missing. Trecoet's team won 15 to 14.

In the two heat single, Antonio, paying those who encouraged him $14 for each $2 ticket, won the third at 8 points. He got one point in his first appearance, took the floor a few minutes later and scored 7 in a row for a victory.

Hughes Comes Through.

The dark horse, Hughes, the other single battle. He rewarded his few encouragers at $10.40 for two but had all he could do to beat out Sanchez and Ramon. The summary:

FIRST GAME—Elimination Single, 8 points: Purcell 8 5.50 4.70 2.00 Tedesco 7 4.00 3.40 Sanchez 5 6.20 3.30 Ramon 4 5.10 3.10 Uriarte, Barrutin, Marcellino, Pascan, Rafael also played.

Sparta A. C. Five Defeats Swedish-Americans, 35-30

The Sparta A. C. basketball team defeated the Swedish-American five, 35 to 30, last night at the Pilsen Turner hall, 18th street and Ashland avenue. In a preliminary game the Taylor Trunks girls won from the West Town team, 55 to 50.

Miracle Shot Bags Mallard at Long Range

BY BOB BECKER.

One of the longest funerals, and most expensive, took place last day of the open season in Illinois, when six of us were seated around a timber hole below Sunicate, on the Illinois river. Jay Graham, trap shooting expert, was the hero of the occasion. He knocked down a mallard with his 32 inch duck gun at such a distance from his blind that we felt sure he must be using telescopic sights and a rifle instead of a shotgun.

as the birds were not deceiving well, Jay was across the pond from Frank Hughes, J. Arthur Miller, and us. The wind had changed to the northeast, so most of the birds which showed any inclination to come down, decoyed to Jay's side of the pond. A lone came in. Down we crouched in our filmy brush blinds, while the live decoys out in front set up a clamor. Some of them were staked out on the ice, but fully 75 or 100 were running loose.

The wind was still, and circling.

He passed over us in front of us, but we didn't open up, as the distance seemed too great for even a lucky shot. Then it swung to the northeast side of the pond, still high in the air and apparently out of range of anything but a canon. We saw Jay get up, raise his gun and the world exploded on the ice.

It was sky high when bang! Jay shot again and then we all passed out as we saw that bird waver and start coasting down on teetering, skidding wings. It hit the smooth ice several hundred feet from Jay's blind to start a joy ride. As the bird skated, rolled, and slid across the ice for another 150 feet, sometimes right side up, then upside down, to finish on its back, with feet kicking.

Cleveland and Bruin Cagers Play Tonight

The Chicago Bruins, with the American league's tallest center, Slim Shoum of Tennessee, a member of the squad, will engage Cleveland tonight at the Broadway armory in the first of a two game series.

Shoum, who can reach within eight inches of the center loop, is the first player ever to perform in the Chicago district who shoots down at the basket. When the ex-Tennesseans mountaineer jumps for the center goal, the man who is able to get the range and drop the ball into the basket.

Slim's score to the Bruins, aside from his drawing power at the box office, depends largely as the agility he can muster on defense. He must be able to cover up on Deighan, the gray haired Cleveland veteran, and if the Tennesseeans has trouble unjoining his ganging legs and crouching sufficiently low to stop the smaller lads as they play on the double, bent him, he will be forced to do the same way to the regular Bruin center.

The other novelty that Manager George Hahn has to offer his patrons tonight is a game between the undefeated Taylor Trunks girls' team and the J. P. I. Clippers, a boys' team. The girls, who have no opposition among their own sex, have decided to play the lightweight boys' aggregations so that the games may be more even.

SHEA STAKES HIS RING FUTURE ON BOUT TOMORROW

Must Whip Fernandez to Keep in Title Race.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Eddie Shea, the west side Italian featherweight who meets Ignacio Fernandez, the Filipino, in the feature fight of Promoter James Mullen's boxers at the Coliseum tomorrow night, remains in the ring for the bout.

He has been training, star full back, and punter of the Cornell football eleven which played here against Chicago's famous championship team of 1899.

Gossiping about football, we asked if he was known among any of those Maroons he played against. "Yes," he replied. "There were two in particular. One was a back named Hamill, very fast, who was always trying to catch me and run. The other was Kennedy, a 200 pound quarter back who backed off. He spoilt many of our plays. We scored once but they scored two or three times. What's become of those two?"

"Ralph Hamill," he replied, "is well known to the Chicago medical profession as a specialist in nervous diseases and lives in Winona, Minn. Walter Kennedy is owner and editor of the Albion, Mich., Evening Recorder. Do you know that nearly all that old Chicago bunch are alive and looking forward to their thirty year reunion a year from next fall? Kennedy recently gathered some statistics and found that only two or three had gained appreciably in weight since then.

Mr. Starbuck received an engineering degree at Cornell and after a year or so at his profession became associated with the Michigan Central and for the last quarter century has worked his way through various positions in the New York Central system to his present title.

Shea firmly believes he can win and he is training harder and more faithfully than he has for any fight of his career.

Good All Around Fighter.

Starbuck is being often heard to say that Eddie has everything necessary to make a great fighter. They claim he can hit, that he is a fairly clever boxer and very good at close quarters. But they frequently have criticized him for taking unnecessary punches, which frequently have brought about his defeat.

Fernandez is a strong opponent. The Filipinos are the combatants of the year last summer and he has beaten several other fighters of note. He is a stiff right hand puncher with a fairly good left hand. He is not so effective in fighting and Shea undoubtedly will try to win the decision by going into close quarters and letting go with both hands for the Filipino's mid-section.

Myers-Schaeffer Sluggers.

The Spur Myers-Frankie Schaeffer are round fracs should be a slugfest.

Both are give and take fighters, and either or both may be on the floor during the fight. Each can hit with his right hand and both can take punishment.

The eight round heavyweight battle between Otto Von Porat and Sammy Slattery is attracting considerable interest, and the ten rounder between Bucky Lawless of Syracuse and Jack Gear of Los Angeles is not being overlooked.

The amateur fights will be staged at the C. A. A. gymnasium on Saturday night. Some of the leading amateurs of the city have been signed and members of the Michigan avenue club appear to enjoy the amateur fight much better than those between the professionals.

Billy Bortfeld of Milwaukee and Bill showers of St. Paul will meet in the semi-windup of the boxing show at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium on Friday night. Howard Bent of Milwaukee and Teddy Esterbrook, the Cleveland middleweight, clash in the round windup. Four other fights will be staged in connection with the Brooklyn college meet on Jan. 21 and he will take part in the K. of C. games in Boston on Jan. 22.

Henry Playground Will Hold Skate Derby Jan. 29

The Henry Playground A. A. will hold its fourth annual skating races at Humboldt park on Jan. 29. As an added feature the association will conduct the Illinois state championship. The regular number of standard events will be held in the open Derby and championships. Entry can be made with officials of the Henry Playground A. A. 4239 North Drake avenue.

Belle Plaine A. C. to Hold Amateur Show Tonight

The next weekly amateur boxing show of the Belle Plaine A. C. will be held tonight at the clubrooms, 3842 Lincoln avenue. Ten bouts will be contested on the card.

STEEL INDUSTRY CREATES DEMAND AS IT PRODUCES

BY HARPER LEECH.

During last summer and fall the steel industry did not cut wages—it parcelled out its available work among its existing force, trying to give every employee a whack at the payroll. Now that the steel business is swelling, its activity is creating the power to buy the goods of others, even as it creates goods to sell.

The real reason why the pig iron barometer has always been as highly regarded, and has been comparatively so reliable, is that when men buy much iron and steel they are usually buying other goods, such as capital goods and thus creating a demand for consumable goods before the new capital goods push more consumables upon the market, so that steel making and buying is active, buying is keeping a jump ahead of or even with supplies.

The steel industry has a definite idea about cost and production, and as it has had a far-reaching policy of price—a policy which is based upon long run considerations, not motivated by those impulses of immediate acquisition to which the classic economists and Socialists alike assigned what we now see was exaggerated importance.

I think that men like Edward

Fulnes and Theodore W. Robinson of the steel industry know as much as they do, and are candid and public spirited enough to talk publicly as they do, about the fundamentals of the wage problem, that we have in that very fact an assurance that America has come very near to solution of the problem of division which the class circumstances ever solved, and which few, past or present, ever tried honestly to solve.

In his address to the British steel makers at Glasgow last year Mr. Robinson said: "Among the other things as noteworthy: During the last twenty-five years the steel of the United States has nearly doubled, while the population, though largely increased, has gone in a lesser ratio. The significance of these changes lies not so much in the increase of the nation's production of wealth as a whole as in the surplus purchasing power that has sprung from the increased output of the individual worker."

A large family may produce in the aggregate much more wealth than a small one, but if the large family accumulates no surplus, a small family with greater individual productivity and with the same proportionate share of living may grow rich while the large one remains poor. A vital factor in the development of the twentieth century, and one which has been especially emphasized in the United States since 1914, is the multiplication of individual effort, rather than the efforts of multiplied individuals."

That's why the problem of maintaining American prosperity is not merely one of "finding jobs" for men, but of finding the kind of jobs in which individual efforts have a multiplied effect, and of abolishing as fast as possible all other kinds of jobs.

KALAMAZOO STOVE UP 5 POINTS IN IRREGULAR CHICAGO STOCK TRADE

Chicago stocks were irregularly lower yesterday. Kalamazoo Stove featured the strong side with a gain of 5 points to 80 on pool support accompanied by rumors that net earnings for 1927 will show more than $15 million against a share of 15.50. Midland Water Utilities had a share of 15 and sold up 5% to 12.50 and Inland Wire closed at 20, a net gain of 5%. Armour preferred was active and advanced 3 points to 70. Auburn Automobile eased a point to 125. Sears-Roebuck and Borg & Beck each lost 4% and declined of a minor fraction each were flat by the Evans and the Consolidated Film issues. Marvel Carburetor was unchanged at 63.

On small sales Celotex recovered 5% and Peacock 5% and Montgomery Ward and Central and Southwest Utilities preferred 1 1/4 each, and Swift, Wrigley, Pines Winterfront and Great Bros. a point each.

The governing committee listed 180,000 additional shares of common of the Kraft Cheese company to be admitted to trading upon notice of the company with the merger with the Philo Cheese company.

The Acme Steel company reported net income for 1927 of $14,418,912 after all charges and taxes, equal to $7.72 a share on 182,568 shares of common stock. This compares with $11,179,204, or $4.85 a share in 1926.

The real reason why the pig iron barometer has always been as highly regarded, and has been comparatively so reliable, is that when men buy much iron and steel they are usually buying other goods, such as capital goods and thus creating a demand for consumable goods before the new capital goods push more consumables upon the market, so that steel making and buying is active, buying is keeping a jump ahead of or even with supplies.

The steel industry has a definite idea about cost and production, and as it has had a far-reaching policy of price—a policy which is based upon long run considerations, not motivated by those impulses of immediate acquisition to which the classic economists and Socialists alike assigned what we now see was exaggerated importance.

I think that men like Edward

Fulnes and Theodore W. Robinson of the steel industry know as much as they do, and are candid and public spirited enough to talk publicly as they do, about the fundamentals of the wage problem, that we have in that very fact an assurance that America has come very near to solution of the problem of division which the class circumstances ever solved, and which few, past or present, ever tried honestly to solve.

Reynolds Tobacco.

B. W. G. R. J. Reynolds Tobacco company reports for 1927 net profits of $1,000,000, up 25% from 1926.

This is equal to $7.57 a share earned on 140,000 shares of common and common B stock in 1927, against $8.22 a share earned on 3,200,000 shares in 1926.

After deducting $1,332,428 in connection with a stock dividend in 1927, undistributed net profits amounted to $40,696,715 at the end of 1927.

Current assets are $184,903,997 and current liabilities $11,855,682 at the close of 1927.

This leaves net working capital of $124,447,388, which compares with $115,584 at the end of 1926.

Dividends at the annual rate of $5 a share were being paid on the common in addition.

An additional amount of $1.80 a share was paid on each on Jan. 3, 1928.

A 25 cent stock dividend was paid Feb. 15, 1927, on both in class B stock.

Both the common and the common B stocks are high grade.

The world's production of copper in 1927 is placed at 1,058,346 tons by the American Bureau of Metal Statistics, compared with 1,064,491 tons in 1926 and 1,059,975 tons in 1925. Domestic output was 145,000 short tons, against 141,975 tons in November and 142,300 tons in December, 1926.

Net premiums written by the National Fire Underwriters for 1927 were $1,500,500, as compared with $1,734,200 in 1926. It was reported at the directors' meeting yesterday. Dividends paid were $1,250,000, as against $1,180,000 for 1926, and surplus was $1,167,703, as against $1,440,454. Capital was increased from $10,000,000 to $12,000,000.

The following is the latest information of the Illinois Service company received at the end of 1927.

Total earnings of $1,000,000, interest payable semi-annually January 2 and July 2. Coupon bonds in denominations of $1,000 and $500, registrable as to principal only. Principal and interest payable at the principal office of either of the Fiscal Agents in New York City in United States gold coin, free of all present or future Chilean taxes except in the case of citizens or residents of Chile.

The cumulative sinking fund is payable semi-annually and applicable to the purchase of Bonds up to principal amount and accrued interest, or if not so obtainable then to the redemption of Bonds by lot on 30 days published notice of principal amount and accrued interest. In addition to being redeemable for the making of the Bonds are redeemable at the option of the City, in whole or in part, on any interest date on 60 days published notice at principal amount and accrued interest plus a premium of 4% if redeemed before January 2, 1939, or 3% if redeemed on or after said date and before January 2, 1944; and of 2% if redeemed on or after said date and before maturity.

Kissel, Kinnicutt & Co. and Hallgarten & Co., Fiscal Agents

The following information has been furnished by Senor Don Manuel Salas Rodriguez, Mayor of the City of Santiago:

The City of Santiago, founded in 1541, is the capital and chief city of the Republic of Chile and the fourth largest city in South America. Its population on January 1, 1926, was 611,000, having more than doubled since 1900.

PURPOSE: Approximately $3,000,000 of the proceeds of this loan will be used for retiring all existing funded debt of the City, both internal and external, and the remainder will be applied to public improvements.

SECURITY: These Bonds constitute the direct obligation of the City. They are secured by the full faith and credit of the City and (upon the retirement of said internal funded debt) by the assignment (pursuant to the National Decree authorizing this issue) of the annual payment amounting to not less than 3,280,000 pesos ($399,045), being made in semi-annual installments by the National Government to the City, pursuant to transitory Article 5 of Decree-Law 755 of 1925, which provides that such payment shall continue until enactment of a further law organizing municipal revenues.

These Bonds are also secured by a first lien upon the revenues of the City from the industrial, commercial and professions license tax and the slaughter house dues, such revenues to be applied to the service of the Bonds to the extent that such service has not been previously provided for from other sources.

The amounts produced during the past three years from the payments and revenues charged as security for the service of these Bonds have been as follows:

1925.....$740,711 1926.....$876,673 1927.....$884,080

(Figures prior to 1926 include revenues for which the national payments were substituted.)

The City covenants that if the aggregate amount of payments and revenues charged with the service of the Bonds should in any fiscal year be less than twice the annual service charge on these Bonds, it will assign and pledge as additional security for the service of the Bonds, other taxes or revenues, free of liens, and producing an annual amount sufficient to cover such deficiency.

Upon application of the proceeds of this issue as aforesaid, these Bonds will then constitute the sole funded debt of the City. Floating debt as of January 1, 1928, was less than $100,000. Under existing Chilean law the City may not create any new loan the issuance of which would cause its total debt to exceed the aggregate of its revenues for the preceding three years; nor create any new loan without the approval of the Council of Ministers of the National Government.

These Bonds are offered when, as and if issued and accepted by us and subject to the approval of counsel.

We reserve the right to reject subscriptions in whole or in part, to allot less than the amount applied for and to close the subscription books at any time without notice. Interim receipts or temporary bonds deliverable in the first instance at the office of Hallgarten & Co., 44 Pine Street, New York City.

Former Gladys High
to Pay Unexpected
Visit to Home Town

Many a moon has gone since the former Gladys High, now the wife of Lieutenant Commander Charles Dennis Burney of Carlton House terrace, London, has seen her native city, but she's expected to arrive in Chicago in a fortnight to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George H. High of 1342 Lake Shore drive, and will be joined later by Commander Burney. The Burneys' unheralded trip to these shores (they landed in New York yesterday) is due to a sudden necessity for Commander Burney's presence in Washington, D. C., to cope with some phase of the subject in which he is vitally interested, commercial aviation. It will be remembered that Commander Burney's invention of the paravane was of immeasurable value as a safety device to the airmen airmen during the last days of the war, and now he is engaged in the creation of a giant liner that is to rival the great ocean liners as a passenger conveyance across the ocean. It is to carry 100 passengers and will be equipped with all possible conveniences and luxuries. The Burney ship is a companion to one being by the British government. His concern in Washington is in connection with the powers that be there on the question of exchange aviation. He is accompanied by several prominent Brits, the outcome of which will probably be faster travel.

The Scribblers, that exclusive little organization that is generally conceded to include most of society's feminine brain, have been invited at Mrs. John H. Winterbotham's residence, 1000 East Huron street, to witness, behind closed doors, to all but members of the group, Mrs. Samuel T. Chase's "Hot Ayer." Even the members of the cast will tell you that it's screamingly funny, so it's time to find an enthusiastic audience in the keen and alert fellow scribes. Mrs. Howard Linn is to play the leading part and the cast will include also Mrs. Charles B. Gandy, Mrs. Morris Johnson, Mrs. John H. Winterbotham, Mrs. John W. Root, and Mrs. Eleanor Holden. Since all the performers are witty, personable, and practiced in the dramatic art, at least to the extent of amateur appearances, they will probably do justice to Mrs. Chase's smart brain child.

That Russian princesses in recent years have had to turn their heads to providing their own bread and butter, not to mention their caviar, is common knowledge, but it's interesting to discover just toward which wage-earning capacities their respective intrigues lead them. Princess Aleksandrina, the pretty little sister of Prince "Nicky" who has been a popular member of the younger set in Chicago, who arrived in the city a short time ago, has got a job with one of the city's travel services and is established here with her mother and brother, to earn an honest living as well as have the good time that society people are so anxious to give her. Mrs. Pauline Falmer is one of the matrons who are also interested in Princess Gaitzina's welfare.

Assisting Mrs. Livingston Fairbank is receive at the Arts club this afternoon for Maurice Ravel will be Mrs. Tennessee Anderson, Mrs. Ernest Frank, Mrs. Clyde Carr, Mrs. Auguste Peabody, Mrs. Rockefeller Raab, Mrs. Charles H. Swift, Fred Stock, and Alexander Raab, representing the Arts club; Mrs. F. M. Miller, Mrs. Edward Davis, Mrs. Mrs. Ida Weston, of La Chorale, and for Mrs. Music, Mrs. William Phillips, Mrs. Felix Borowski, and Mrs. John Fenn.

The Arts club has cards out for a to open two exhibitions next Tuesday afternoon, one a display of the sculpture of Jacob Epstein, and the other of decorative designs by Julius Meissel.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Norton Goodwin are giving one of the popular Friday evening parties, with singing, bowing and dancing, followed by supper at Apple Green, the Goodwin place in Lake Forest.

The Drama league has on its program a meeting on Thursday next at 7 o'clock at the Arts club. Mrs. Edna Mowery will speak on "Contemporary French and German Plays." There will be served afterwards for members and guests of the Drama league.

Mr. and Mrs. Orlis Hubbard are the parents of a son at the Presbyterian hospital on Tuesday, and Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Eldred of 210 East Walton place have announced the birth of a son, also at the Presbyterian hospital on Monday.

Mrs. Everett Brown of Chicago is visiting her son, Mr. and Mrs. Eldred here. Miss Florence Admaston, her mother, and Mrs. Eldred are the former Grace Andrews of High Park. Mrs. Eldred's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Andrews of High Park, returned yesterday from a stay at Belleair, Fla., to greet their grandchild.

Mrs. Pauline Raab, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Raab of 2725 Prairie avenue, is visiting Miss Carrotta Glasgow in St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Boak of Hubbard Woods are sojourning in New York City.

Mrs. Paul Noyes of 19 Scott Street is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Marvin H. Gates in Kansas City, Mo. She departed the first of this week and will not return until next Monday or Tuesday.

Meeting of D. A. R.

The Chicago chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will hold their regular meeting this afternoon at the Stevens hotel. Dr. Max Mason, president of the University of Chicago, will speak. Mrs. Louis Fowler Hopkins is the regent in charge of the meeting.

Physicians advise simple way to protect children from colds

Frequent colds in children often cause more harm than is apparent. They lower vitality thus often leading to more serious trouble. Medical authorities are now advising a simple but very effective way to protect children from colds and their serious after-effects.

They find that good cod-liver oil, given daily, builds up a strong resistance to colds and other infections. It helps the under-weight child to gain weight and grow as he should. His energy and endurance are markedly increased.

Ask your physician about Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil as a health-builder for your child; as a preventive of colds and other infections. You can get Squibb's at all reliable drug stores. For your protection insist on Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil.

Scientists have shown that the increased growth and resistance resulting from the use of cod-liver

W-G-N RADIO PROGRAM

416.4 Meters—720 Kilocycles

The Chicago Tribune Station on the Drake Hotel

Thursday, January 19th

OPERA lovers will find a treat tonight in Balkite's broadcast of "Die Fledermaus" (The Bat) direct from the stage of the Chicago Civic Opera. The famous Rosa Raisa plays "Rosalinda," and Charles Hackett and

Rosa Raisa

Irene Pavloska are other stars in this mystery-laden Viennese operetta. This program, sung in English, will be heard from 9 to 10 o'clock.

THE Cliquot Club Eskimos are tuned up for a lively hour just preceding "The Bat." And there'll be the Hoover Sentinels, featuring Erno Rappe's new song sensation, "Charmaine." Several other hits from the musical shows are reproduced in this lively half hour.

CORRELL and Gosden, harmony kings of W-G-N, ride the wave length at 10:40 in another of their hilarious song and laugh acts. When you hear the plaintive whistling of the "Indian Love Call," that means they're at it again.

MAC SATTLEY hits the ozone twice today. His well known "half hour" puts a punch in the afternoon music. And at 11 o'clock he becomes a Hoodlum, bringing in his friends—Melba Caldwell, Larry Shay, and—who knows? Lawrence and Frank Salerno appear in the Teatime period with more of their lilting Neapolitan songs. And look at all these other features in the detailed program:

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The Robert E. Lee program from New York through WERL, 7 to 7:30 last night, was interesting. This was the first of the weekly series of "Great Moments in History," series that have been on the broadcast all week. Mr. Starkweather was a member of the Union League, Glen View, and Evanston Country clubs, and the Chicago Athletic association. His family home is at 1944 Lake Shore boulevard, Evanston.

FRANK HENRY STARKWEATHER DIES IN IOWA

Frank Henry Starkweather of Evanson, banker and manager of estates, died suddenly yesterday at Dubuque, Ia., where he had gone on Monday for a visit with relatives. He was 74 years old and was born in a home in Madison, Mich., and Michigan was his home. His father, Charles R. Starkweather, was for several terms assistant postmaster of Chicago.

Mr. Starkweather was married in 1894 to Miss Estelle Staples of Dubuque, who survives him, together with their three children, Mrs. E. Royce Armstrong, Rodine and Doris Starkweather. His family will be with the widow. Mr. Starkweather was a member of the Union League, Glen View, and Evanston Country clubs, and the Chicago Athletic association. His family home is at 1944 Lake Shore boulevard, Evanston.

Antoinette Tells
Why It's Important to Bathe Frequently

What to do for excessive perspiration is Edna's query. What causes it and how can one kill the unpleasant odor accompanying it?

A certain amount of perspiration is necessary to health. The work of the perspiratory glands is to remove waste from the system and to carry off certain waste matter, so that cleanliness of the body is one of the first and most urgent requirements in fighting perspiration odors. The openings of the perspiratory glands must be kept free and unclogged to promote proper functioning.

Excessive bathing would be essential unless there no odor from perspiration, but it is triply needed when there is any slight hint of this unpleasantness. A warm soap and water bath at night must be taken. If one can get himself used to the cold shower in the morning, she does help herself wonderfully in overcoming this disorder.

With the brisk rubbing afterward there is stirred up a better circulation which helps to clear the pores so that the natural work of the perspiration is not interfered with. Too, the trouble is often caused through nervousness or high tension of one kind or another that the cold bath side immeasurably.

Much of the excessive perspiration trouble among women is due to lowered vitality, low nerve tone of the skin, nervousness and a generally run down condition due, more often than not, to lack of exercise, lack of water taken into the system daily, and irregular diet. Diet must be vitally important in such cases. Constipation and failure to get free kidney action result from insufficient water taking into the system and it is from these complaints that the unpleasant odor arises.

Bidding oneself of the disorder is simply a matter of personal hygiene in regard to features of personal care. The first of the observations that the pores are removed and with the water drinking the system is given its much needed flushing.

There are excellent deodorants and antiperspirants on the market, the products of reliable manufacturers. Or, if you send me a stamped addressed envelope I'll send you an excellent formular with instructions as to its application, the latter a bit too long to print here.

U.S.
ROBINSON
DEMOCRATS
FOR HEFLIN

Confidence in Leadership V

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—With only one dissenting vote, a conference of Democratic senators today expressed confidence in Senator Joseph T. Robinson (Dem., Ark.), leader of the senate, who was challenged yesterday by Senator James T. Heflin (Dem., Ala.).

The action of the conference was construed as approval of the rebuke administered by Senator Heflin to the Alabama senator, who has continued attacks upon the Catholic church.

Senator Heflin, however, said his action was in any way directed at him. The Alabama senator remained away from the conference when he said, because Senator Heflin (Dem., N. C.) and Senator T. C. Tammie (Dem., Tenn.) urged him to drop out.

Senator Heflin gave the reason for his absence to the afternoon when he took time to a further defense of his right to serve, notice that he intended to talk against the Roman Catholic church and against the Pope.

Tex. of Party Indoctrination. The resolution was adopted by the conference was:

"Resolved, that this conference expresses confidence in the leadership of Senator Robinson and authorizes the special committee to investigate the alleged anti-Catholic documents."

The resolution was offered by Senator Glass (Dem., Va.). It was carried by a vote of 33 to 1. The dissenting vote was cast by Senator Tammie (Dem., Fla.), who did not believe the conference should be required to take sides in the controversy.

Before approving the resolution, the conference struck out a clause which stated that the leader of Senator Robinson had been challenged.

Robinson Does Not Yield. Senator Robinson and Senator Heflin (Dem., Ala.), Senator Heflin, did not vote.

Although Senator Robinson announced in the senate yesterday that a conference would be held at which he would seek confidence, and although no date was set for the conference, Senator Heflin informed the conference this afternoon that he supposed the conference would be dropped and failed to attend nothing would be lost in his absence.

"The effort to rebuke me failed," said Senator Heflin after giving his version of what happened. "The conference was a lousy censuring meeting, where all the senators who attended the conference were censured.

"I would not expect the conference to take any other action than to endorse the leadership of Senator Robinson from Arkansas in the hope that he would remove him because of his courageous mistake and yesterday's vote."

"I am going to continue from time to time upon my stand as the overshadowing issue of the American people. I will not be swayed by them unless they poison me; I am going to discharge my duty as I see it and as God gives me strength."

Senator Moses (Rep., N. J.) told Senator Heflin, arousing the conference, that he would not remove him because of his courageous mistake and yesterday's vote.

Referring to Senator Heflin, he said that he did not know when he would come up at the conference, Senator Moses said, the record of yesterday's session was the notice of the speech by Senator Robinson.

Senator Moses told Senator Heflin that he was correct in saying that Smith could not be succeeded, but that he was wrong in saying that the New York government would be nominated.

Gov. Al Smith Interested. Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19.—Interest was followed "with the greatest interest" by the United States Senate between Senator Heflin of Alabama and Senator Moses of New York, regarding his possible nomination.

At a press conference in his office today, the governor denied the information that he had been nominated, but when questioned on page 4, he
